MOONEY'S PLEA IS DENIED

RUSS AVIATORS SAY LINDBERGH UNFAIR TO THEM

Denounce American Flier for Report Said Made to British.

MOSCOW. (UP). Eleven of Russia's foremost aviators bitterly denounced Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Monday on the ground that he had belittled Russia's air force "According to information in the highest quarters in London, Paris and Prague, the soviet air fleet is quantitatively at least equal to the combined German Japanese air forces and is qualitatively much superior," the aviators said.

The denunciation of Lindbergh was based on allegations, spread partly by rumor, that during the Czechoslovak crisis or earlier he asserted that Russia's air force had been weakened dangerously by the political purge and that Germany's air force was equal to the combined air strength of Great Britain, France, Russia and Czechoslovakia.

But the statement which the Russian aviators in their anger made regarding the strength of Russia's aviation, was one calculated to be an international sensation.

Estimates of Russia's air strength vary widely. There is little official information on which to base estimates. A fleet of Russian fighting 'planes caused a definite turn for a time in the aerial phase of the Spanish civil war; Russian planes have flown to and landed at the North pole and have flown from Moscow to the American Pacific coast.

In their letter, published in Pravda, the official newspaper of the communist party, the aviators denounced Lindbergh as having fascist tendencies, asserted that he had abused the hospitality shown him in Russia, ridiculed his accomplishments since his transAtlantic flight.

It is alleged that Lindbergh said

CLAIM ARMORED CAR ROBBERY IS SOLVED

District Attorney's Men Run Down Story of 1934 Holdup, Slayings.

NEW YORK. (AP). The World-Telegram says Dist. Atty. William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn has information which will solve the daring $427,000 holdup of an armored car in 1934 as well as two slayings heretofore not known connected with the robbery.

Authorities, after four years of intensive investigation now, have a true picture of the crime, the events leading up to and following it, together with the identities of all the characters and the roles they played.

The first of the slayings—a technical homicide arising out of an alleged surgical operation—was said to be that of Bennie MacMahon, a member of the stick-up gang whose nude body was found stuffed in a trunk four days after the hold-up.

The other death, the paper says, was that of John "Fats" Manning, MacMahon's buddy, also a participant in the hold-up. Manning was shot to death July 9, 1936 in upper Manhattan. Police learned that Manning vowed he would avenge MacMahon's death and they expect to link his shooting to the man allegedly responsible for the MacMahon slaying.

The paper learned Geoghan is ready to order the arrest of five persons, who with nine others either in jail or dead, are implicated.

The five are expected to be taken into custody, after the return of Geoghan's assistant, Francis A. Madden, and Deputy Chief Inspector John J. Ryan who last week went to the west coast to question two of the hold-up gang in Alcatraz prison. John Oley and Percy Geary are serving 75 year sentences for the kidnaping of Lieut. John O'Connell, jr.

DOWNTOWN STORE ROBBED

Loss Is $129 at Mullen's; Police Without Clues.

A robbery which left police with no clues was discovered Monday morning at Court S. Mullen's jewelry store, 141 No 13th. Altho merchandise valued at $129.50 was found missing, officers were unable to determine how the store was entered. There were no fingerprints on the front door, the only entrance to the store, and this door was found locked as usual Monday morning.

Twelve fountain pens, 10 pen and pencil sets, a bracelet, and several dozen rings were stolen sometime between noon Sunday and 8 a. m. Monday. Officers examined the store and basement thoroly and could find no evidence revealing the thief's method of entrance. There is no outside entrance to the basement and walls were found intact.

REPORT LARDNER SLAIN

Rebel Moors Said to Have Killed Prisoner.

PERPIGNAN, FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER, (UP). The death of James Lardner, son of the late Ring Lardner, at the hands of Spanish rebel Moors on the Erbo front, was reported. Spanish loyalists, who said they saw the 24 year old American youth captured and slain, disputed earlier reports that he had been taken prisoner to some concentration camp. American representatives who have been trying for a week to learn Lardner's fate, refused to accept the report as official until they had learned whether he was listed among the prisoners at Saraagossa.

Loyalist officers sent word here that there was no doubt as to the youth's fate, that his comrades were near enough at the time of his capture to see the Moors kill him. He might have been saved had a nationalist officer arrived before the shooting.

Lardner went to Spain as a newspaper man and joined the international brigade.

WANTS PROCEEDINGS TO REMAIN IN CITY

Argument on $104,500 Claim —Objections Filed Plan Of Reorganization.

Atty. William Aitken, representing Woods Brothers corporation, debtor, vigorously opposed before Judge Munger Monday efforts by Atty. Robert Van Pelt to lift from the reorganization proceedings here an item of $104,500, general claim, for trial separately in Kansas City where the suit originated some years ago. The action was brought by George McNulty, receiver for Allied Aviation Industries, to cancel contract for purchase of $104,500 of stock in the Arrow Aircraft & Motors company. The stock allegedly was sold by Woods-Faulkner company.

Mr. Van Pelt argued that the equity case started in Kansas City should be followed to a conclusion there. The special master recently overruled request for reservation of this claim. In answer to assertion by Atty Aitken that it would cause additional expense and much time to take the case back to Kansas City, Van Pelt said the greatest criticism to the reorganization act is that too many groups and too many attorney fees are involved.

Mr. Aitken said that bankers, stockholders and bondholders interested in the prompt reorganization of Woods Brothers corporation are not interested in the Kansas City matter. The suit, he said, was filed in 1932 against a number of defendants. In 1935, motion of Woods Brothers corporation to overrule was dismissed.

Counsel for debtor corporation said that general claims against the company, this one included, total but $175,000 and that the special master has not yet allowed a disputed claim. To give special recognition to this claim, he said, would mean that the one creditor could control this entire class and thus hamper reorganization.

"There is not a shadow of liability against Woods Brothers corporation in this matter," he said.

I. D. Benyon, of counsel for a large group of stockholders, said that his group filed objections to the claim. The purpose of reorganization, he said, is to bring all parties together before one court.

Objections—Classification.

Objections and proposed amendments to the proposed plan were filed. The court was asked to approve a proposed order on classification of claims, one previously approved by the special master. He indicated that he will approve this, or a similar one, soon. The proposed order sets up the following classes.

Claims entitled to priority
Claims of insurance companies
Claims based on 10 year 6 percent trust sinking bonds
Other claims under indenture dated April 1, 1927
Bank loans
Claims of wholly-owned subsidiaries.
Preferred stock.

HITLER PROBES ATTACK MADE ON VIENNA PRELATE

Vatican Plans Protest--Heavily Increased Attendance at Services.

BERLIN. (UP). Adolf Hitler was understood to have sent a special emissary to Vienna to investigate the attack Saturday night on the palace of Cardinal Innitzer.

Hitler was said to have been "greatly annoyed" and to have ordered immediately a strict investigation and severe punishment for organizers of the rioting.

VATICAN CITY. (UP). The vatican plans to make a strong protest against the anti-Catholic demonstrations in Vienna, reliable church sources said. The protest would be made thru Msgr. Cesare Orsenico, papal nuncio to Germany Church authorities, deeply shocked by the outbreak against Cardinal Innitzer, had not yet received a report from the nunciatura in Berlin.

Foresee Religious Revival.

VIENNA. (UP). Roman Catholics predicted that a religious revival would sweep Austria as the result of nazi riots in which a crucifix, prayer books, and a painting of the Madonna were burned. Already heavily increased attendance had been noted at all Catholic church services, even tho newspapers had published no reports of the riots and the news was circulated only by word of mouth.

The first indication of a surge of religious sentiment might be apparent in an increased attendance at schools where religious education is part of the program. A week ago priests were compelled to read an official decree announcing that religious education at schools was no longer compulsory. But Sunday, in all churches of the Vienna archdiocese a circular letter was read from Cardinal Innitzer, appealing to parents to make their children attend religious-education schools.

'Nazi authorities seemed to be taking every precaution against a new outbreak against the church.

Thousands of defiant young nazis milled about the cathedral neighborhood Sunday. After Sunday night's services, 100 boys in Hitler youth uniform, headed by flag bearers and a drum corps, marched past the cathedral singing marching songs.

Darkened Under Guard.

Cardinal Innitzer remained under guard in his palace. An official spokesman explained that he was not under "protective" or any other sort of custody by the nazis

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP). The American Federation of Labor voted for congressional amendment of the Wagner act, and ordered its leadership to oppose senate confirmation of President Roosevelt's reappointment of Donald Wakefield Smith to the labor board.

Without a dissenting vote or controversial debate, the delegates approved resolutions committee reports calling for nine revisions in the labor law to curb the discretionary power of the board.

FBI OFFICIAL SEES CO-OPERATION NEEDS

Believes All Agencies of Law Should Be Bound Together.

Asking for three way co-operation between state, city and FBI (federal bureau of investigation) law enforcement officials, W. H. Drane Lester, of the FBI in Washington, opened the convention of the Nebraska Policemen's association Monday at the Lincoln. He also delved into the latest developments in scientific finger printing, and the long and rigorous training given prospective members of the FBI.

Mayor Copeland welcomed the policemen, who are representing 60 towns in the state, and President H. L. Moore, responded. There were 39 of the towns in the membership represented at the morning meeting, with the remainder expected later in the day.

The program of speeches was halted two hours, starting at noon, while the policemen went on the range for a pistol shooting contest.

Recommendation of W. V. Young, association executive officer, was for the establishment of pistol shooting contests monthly between teams from the various towns. Also before the house is the proposal of putting police officers in Nebraska under civil service, a bill to be drawn to be looked over by the 60 town councils, before submission to the Nebraska legislature when it convenes in January.

Barlow Nye, assistant attorney general, criticized Nebraska's antiquated every-man-for-himself type of law enforcement.

"There should be a better means of co-operating in law enforcement in Nebraska," he said, "between city, county and state officers. Personally, they do co-operate as well as they can, but they run into many disturbing situations where the law enforcement setup is unwieldy and confusing. I believe also that officers should be placed on a semi-civil service status, in order that a man who has just started to do a good job as a peace officer will not be booted because the politics have changed. More than anything, however, we need unity of the law enforcement agencies."

Dwight L Holmes, general manager of Omaha's better business bureau; Richard Jepson, Omaha's commissioner of police; and Patrick F. Payne, safety director on Nebraska busline, were other opening day speakers. In the evening, a buffet supper is to be served, with additional entertainment. Gov. Cochran will speak.

BUTLER ASKS MEETING IN LINCOLN TUESDAY

Asks Congressional Delegation to Be Here for Conference.

OMAHA. (UP). Mayor Butler, chairman of a committee appointed at the PWA "indignation" meeting at Lincoln wired the Nebraska congressional delegation Monday, urging the two senators and five representatives to confer with the committee at Hotel Lincoln Tuesday at 10 a. m. Other members of the committee are the mayors of Lincoln and Beatrice, Britt Pryor, former president of the state federation of labor, and William A. Parkinson, representing the Omaha Builders' Exchange.

The conference is expected to map out a plan to convince Secy. Ickes, national PWA head, that Nebraska should not be discriminated against in distribution of funds for the 1938 PWA program.

The citizens committee which promoted the Lincoln meeting issued an appeal for funds to send representatives to Washington to look out for Nebraska's interests in the capital.

In an open letter to all those interested in securing projects, Secy. E. E. Gilmore said that construction industry organizations will send representatives, and expressed the belief that at least two outstate leaders should accompany the delegation. The letter asked for $10 contributions to help defray expenses.

Resolutions adopted at Lincoln asserted other states in this area are receiving $3.85 per capita while Nebraska's share is but $1 22

DRAINAGE DISTRICT LOSES IN HIGH COURT

Federal Bench Refuses to Review Nebraska Order Halting Dissolution.

WASHINGTON. (UP). The supreme court denied the petition of supervisors of drainage district No. 1 of Richardson county, Neb., for a review of the Nebraska supreme court decision prohibiting the district from dissolving until it has carried out previous orders to enlarge its drainage channels.

The litigation began in 1932, when James P. Mooney, and other owners of property below bridge 64 on the Great Nemaha river, brought suit to compel the district to enlarge its channels. Reason for the desired enlargement was that drainage districts above district No. 1 had increased their capacities, with the result that the small channels in district No. 1 frequently overflowed and flooded the land.

The state supreme court, in 1934, issued a mandatory injunction ordering district No. 1 to enlarge its channels, but at approximately the same time the legislature enacted a new law permitting drainage districts to dissolve, and stating that they need not enlarge their channels merely because of increased flow from other districts.

Under that statute, the commissioners of district No. 1 began dissolution proceedings without complying with the mandatory injunction to enlarge their channels.

Mooney and other land holders below the bridge, in the area which suffered greatest damage from inundations, brought a new suit to prevent the dissolution.

The state supreme court, in this suit, ruled that the district could not be dissolved until it had complied with the 1934 mandatory injunction, and rejected the commissioners' contention that enlarging the channels in compliance with

ORDERS NEW PAVING ESTIMATED AT $48,000

Council Takes Action Under PWA Grant—Proposes Create Other Districts.

Monday afternoon the council took a first bite at the recent $135,450 PWA grant, latter representing 45 percent of a total cost not to exceed $30,000. Nnine districts, estimated at $48,000, were in and the clerk directed to advertise for bids to be received Oct. 26. It is the expectation that the work will be completed before winter sets in. Descriptions and estimates:

District No. 412, E 2nd to 6th, $12,800.
District No. 869, Starr, 44th to 46th, $1,500
District No 871, Claremont, 9th to 10th, $3,600
District No. 872, Laurel, 27 to 29th, $5,000.
District No 873, 29th Sherman to Jackson, $7,000.
District No. 874, Rose, 16th to alley west, $1,500
District No, 875, Smith, 33rd to 35th, $5,400.
District No. 877, Melrose, 31st to Sheridan, $5,000.
District No 876, Lake, 27th to Sheridan, $3,200.

In addition to the above, five ordinances were introduced, three creating paving districts, one sewer and one water. The locations:

Paving, 50th, Garland to Walker.
Paving, 29th, E to F.
Paving, 8th, A to B.
Sewer, Benton to Fremont, 56th to Touzalin.
Water, Huntington, 48th to 53rd.

There are some objections to the last named undertaking. The creation of a district, however, does not mean that the work necessarily will be done. That will require formal petitions.

On third reading and final passage was an ordinance creating paving district No. 880, for the widening of 27th, from H extended to Alpha, 8 feet on each side. Also ready for final consideration was an ordinance creating paving district No. 879, Calvert, Sheridan to Woodbine, altho a request had been received to shorten it to 40th.

Plans were approved concerning WPA storm sewer construction, 11th street, South to Garfield, and the clerk directed to advertise for bids on basis of estimate of $7,300, city's share only. Total cost is reckoned at $16,000, the government's share being $8,700. The concrete main will range from 30 to 24-inch with 15 and 18-inch laterals.

CORN PRODUCTION SLIGHTLY HIGHER

Estimate Is 2,459,316,000 Bushels—Wheat Forecast 940,229,000.

WASHINGTON. (UP). The agriculture department estimated 1938 corn production at 2,459,316,000 bushels compared with a September estimate of 2,454,526,000 bushels.

The report indicated agriculture officials, seeking to ease the price shock of another bumper crop, will face the problem of a corn carryover of approximately 305,000,000 bushels in planning 1939 plantings.

This year's wheat crop was estimated at 940,229 bushels

The estimate was based on Oct 1 conditions and compared with 939,972,000 bushels of wheat a month ago. Wheat production last year was 873,993,999 bushels and corn production, 2,644,995,000 bushels, while average production for the ten years, 1927-36, was wheat, 752,891,000 bushels and corn, 2,306,157,000 bushels.

The spring wheat estimate was 251,771,000 bushels compared with 251,514,000 bushels indicated a month ago, 188,891,000 produced last year and 206,494,000 the ten year average.

The winter wheat production was 688,458,000 bushels, compared with 685,102,00 last year, and 546,396,000, the ten year average.

Production of oats was estimated at 1,041,577,000 bushels, compared with a forecast of 1,034,347,000 a month ago, 1,146,258,000 last year, and 1,042,461,000, the ten year average.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES REVIEW TO CALIFORNIAN

Black and Reed Dissent—Mrs. Hahn's Appeal Is Also Rejected.

WASHINGTON. (UP). The supreme court refused to review California state court decisions denying freedom to Thomas J. The high court's action apparently terminates finally legal action in one of the most celebrated civil liberties fights of the century.

GERMANS COMPLETE CZECH OCCUPATION

Hungarians Prepare to Take Two Border Towns—Hitler's Warning.

By Associated Press.

In Czechoslovakia German troops completed occupation of all territory agreed upon by international negotiation.

Hungarian forces prepared to occupy two border points which Czechoslovakia had agreed to hand over as a preliminary to proposed cession of Hungarian inhabited areas of the dismembered republic.

At Komarom, on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian frontier, representatives of the two countries negotiated further details of the cession. Czechoslovak troops were ready to resist any invasion before final agreement is reached.

With much of the industrial area of Czechoslovakia occupied by German troops, German army officers predicted the little republic had but one choice, to become the vassal of Berlin.

That the future still carries war dangers was the warning informed circles saw in a speech by Adolf Hitler Sunday in Saarbruecken. Hitler declared Germany was ready for understanding with her neighbors, but was preparing herself defensively more than ever.

In Palestine, British armed forces undertook a new drive to stamp out terrorism arising from Arab and Jewish claims to the Holy Land. Reinforcements were ordered to bring to 21,000 the total of British troops and police on duty in the strife torn area.

Italy issued to Britain a roundabout invitation to consider settled the outstanding differences between Rome and London, with a start promised on withdrawal of fascist troops from Spain.

On the Spanish war front insurgents reported continued advances along the Ebro river.

In China, Japanese reported their forces had reached Sinyang, important railway base 100 miles north of Hankow. Chinese countered with a statement that two full Japanese brigades, totaling 20,000 men, had been annihilated near Teian, 130 miles southeast of Hankow.

TWO CARS OVERTURN.

Altho both cars overturned following an accident at 14th and H about 9:15 a. m. Monday, no one was injured. Harvey Traylor, 1424 D, was driving north on 14th and Mrs Nellie R. Hutchins, 3424 T, was traveling east on H. Police said the upset of both cars was remarkable in that neither was traveling at a high rate of speed. Each car hit on its right side and neither appeared to be damaged excessively.

In division C, H L Bowman, in charge of soliciting department stores, and A E Wolf, who has the social agencies, have 100 percent. Theo. H Berg, who solicits city departments, was the only man over the top in division D Captains in the women's division who have 100 percent or more are Mrs. Earl Cline, Mrs. Blanchard Anderson, Mrs Vance Traphagen, Mrs. O. R. Martin and Mrs. C. B. Anderson

DRAINAGE DISTRICT

the injunction would he so costly as to amount to illegal confiscation.

It was explained that no objections have been filed to the above classification which allegedly meets the approval of attorneys representing the various groups.

Attys. Good & Simons, in behalf of A. M. Rohde, Mary Shapiro and Charles Shapiro, holders of 6 percent bonds, presented a number of proposed amendments to the pending plan of reorganization. Some of the requests:

That there be inserted provision that no funds, however derived, be applied to payment on, purchase or redemption and retirement of either series of new bonds unless two-thirds of said funds shall be applied to the purchase or redemption and retirement of series A new bonds and one-third to series B new bonds.

That net earnings shall be construed to mean earnings before depreciation of the new company and its subsidiaries.

Trust Indenture.

That new bonds shall be issued under a trust indenture entered into between the new company and directors and trustees named by the court There to be pledged with the trustees as security for new bonds, all shares of capital stock of all subsidiaries of Woods Brothers corporation

Proposal that proceeds from life insurance policies of officers or directors shall be paid to trustee and become part of the sinking fund

For holding and voting shares of new common stock that a stock trust be established under which there shall be seven trustees, three to be selected by the bondholders' reorganization committee one by the first president of the new company, one by the protective committee for stockholders one selected by Mark W. Woods and George J. Woods and one for the bondholders who have not deposited their bonds with the reorganization committee

Proposal for seven directors of the new company, two to be designated by the bondholders' committee, another to be Bennett S Martin, one of the largest holders of bonds, one to be the first president of the new company, one to be Mark W. Woods another George J Woods and one to be designated by the protective committee for preferred stockholders

Submits Objections.

Atty. R C. VanKirk, for Minnie V. Rawson and other stockholders, filed objections and suggested amendments to the plan. He contends that it provides for the proprietary management by the bondholders committee and bank creditors committee to the practical exclusion of preferred stockholders and restricts the right of the latter to vote. Other objections raised by him:

That the plan allegedly fails to give stockholders the right to elect directors to represent them

That a corporation can only act thru its board of directors elected by its stockholders

That it fails to provide stockholders with adequate provision for realization by them of their equities

That it fails to give these preferred stockholders preferential rights to which they are entitled

That it does not provide adequate means and methods to insure a management that will protect all the interests involved

That the proposed plan does not require that all the assets of debtor corporation and its subsidiaries be transferred to the assets of the new or successor corpration

Petitioners request that a new or successor corporation be organized under the laws of Nebraska and the assets of the corporation and all its subsidiaries be transferred to successor corporation.

It is further requested that the management be vested in a board of directors to serve until directors can be elected by the stockholders. A board of five is disired by petitioner ,one from bondholders, one from bank creditors, one from each committee of preferred stockholders and one appointed by the court.

Stockholders to elect directors and directors to elect officers.

That the claims of the wholly owned subsidiaries of debtor corporation heretofore filed before the referee should not be allowed as claims against the new corporation.

That in lieu of 7 and 6 percent preferred stock outstanding, new non-cumulative preferred stock be issued which should have voting rights and should provide for annual dividends of not to exceed 3 percent.

That the plan should eliminate the stock trust provision which allegedly deprives the stockholders of their right to vote.

HITLER PROBES ATTACK

—that the guards of crack black uniformed "SS" bodyguards in and about the palace were there solely to protect him and to preserve order.

Cardinal Innitzer celebrated mass at the cathedral Sunday. His attendance confirmed the statement of spokesmen that he was not injured in Saturday night's riot.

Many members of the congregation wept and their sobs were audible. One priest was so overcome by the service that he became faint, and had to be escorted out. Many people tried to approach the cardinal and kiss his hands and robes as he made his way from the sacristy to the altar and back again. The SS guards prevented them from touching him. The condition of Father Johann Kravanik, 60, who suffered two broken legs when nazis threw him from a window of his home during Saturday night's riot was reported possibly critical

Usually reliable informants said the cardinal's veteran secretary, Msgr Jacob Weinbacher, narrowly escaped death Saturday night when the mob invaded the arch episcopal palace. He was the first priest whom the mob reached, and was nearly hurled from a window. He grasped the jagged edges of window frames as the nazis tried to throw him to the street below.

One of the first effects of the rioting was to create a strong wave of popularity for the cardinal Catholics had been puzzled by the cardinal's efforts to attain friendly relations with the nazis after Hitler's absorption of Austria.

LOZIER TAKES STAND TO DEFEND HIMSELF

Begins Account of John Hunter's Movements Just Before Disappearance.

NORTH PLATTE (UP). Harold Lozier, charged with the seven-year old murder of John Hunter, "big shot" bootlegger, defended himself from the witness stand Monday. Lozier was called just before the noon recess and started telling his own story of events prior to Hunter's disappearance in 1931 He said Hunter's still had been raided numerous times before he leased the Siegelin farm for $500, plus a share in the crops

The defense presented four witnesses Monday who attempted to show discrepancies between descriptions of the living John Hunter and characteristics of the skeleton found on the Siegelin farm Several witnesses said Hunter had one gold tooth, and a dentist testifying for Lozier said there was no evidence of gold in the teeth found with the skeleton.

Pat McHugh refuted state witnesses who testified Lozier often lost $200 to $300 a night at the gaming tables McHugh said to his knowledge Lozier's losses never were more than $15 to $20 in the 1931-32 card games He said Lozier played nearly every night.

FEDERATION WOULD AMEND

by assailing both his appointee to the board and the board's policies.

The committee said the board has brought administrative justice "into disrepute" and said amendments should be presented to congress changing the Wagner act on the following points.

1. The unit rule must be changed to conform to that which is in the railway labor act so that it will be obligatory on the board to grant a craft or class the right to select its bargaining representative by majority vote.

2. The power of the board to invalidate contracts must be definitely curtailed.

3. Every known interested party should be served with due process and be afforded and opportunity to appear in any case. No contractual rights should be passed upon without every party to the contract being served with process and given the right to appear in the case.

4. Intervention by interested parties should be made a matter of right and not a matter of discretion

5. Definite qualifications should be set forth in respect to examiners. Some are wholly incompetent and unfit to serve in that capacity. *In fact affidavits of pre*judice should be permitted to be filed against them where an examiner is unfair.

6. Clarification respecting power over the issuance of subpoenas is necessary and liberalizing of the rule in that respect should be provided

7. The secrecy of files must be lifted to the extent that all persons may have an opportunity to examine a record which contains material on which decisions are made.

8. Elections hall be conducted within 30 days from filing of a petition therefor.

9. All cases shall be decided within 45 days after the close of the taking of testimony.

PLANT MORE SHELTERBELTS

Great Increase Recorded for the Current Year.

GRAND ISLAND.—Tree shelterbelt plantings in the plains states, in which the forest service co-operates with farmers, in 1938 almost doubled the total for the three previous years.

A total of 6,871 miles of tree shelterbelts has been planted, of which 4,264 miles were planted in 1938. A total of 11,636 farms have been served, 7,046 of them this year. Eighty-four million trees were used. Nebraska and Oklahoma planted the most mileage during the year, with more than 1,000 in each state. Nebraska and Oklahoma also lead in total plantings, with more than 1,500 miles each on 5,349 farms

Shelterbelt planting in the plains states is wholly co-operative, foresters point out. The forest service furnishes the trees, and uses relief labor to do the planting and build the fence surrounding the shelterbelt. The farmer furnishes the land, prepares it for planting, furnishes the fence material, and cultivates the shelterbelt.

RELIGION IN GOVERNMENT

Simmons Speaks for Freedom at Midland Assembly.

FREMONT, Neb —Speaking before a Midland college convocation Monday morning Robert G. Simmons of Lincoln said in part:

"The men who founded our nation provided in the constitution that no law should be made respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, they also determined that our institutions of government should be forever free from the control of any religious organization. Both these principles are fundamentally sound and the rights of our people under them must be scrupulously protected by the courts However, this clear-cut separation of church and state does not mean that the founders believed that this should be a nation without religion, nor does it mean that religious principles are absent from our government. On the contrary, the fundamental religious truths taught by all churches of the colonies were translated into and became the basis of our governmental ideals. We should heed Washington's advice that religious beliefs of our people must be maintained."

Nebraska Group Insists on Abolition of Alcohol at Omaha Meet.

OMAHA. (AP). In a militant attack upon alcoholic liquors, Nebraska Christian Endeavor societies Sunday adopted a resolution stating "we are not satisfied with the term prohibition but insist upon abolition."

"We offer ourselves to our country as tireless crusaders for the return to the dry era in American life," the resolution continued, ". . . we favor leading the brewer to Christ, turning the brewery into some useful institution and destroying forever the existence of brew."

Deplore Tobacco Ads.

Another resolution deplored the "tremendous advertising campaign which tends to fasten habits of cigaret smoking on the boys and girls of America as a menace to physicial, mental and spiritual development of youth."

The delegates declared "complete allegiance to our country and its democratic form of government" and called upon all members "to develop citizenship programs encouraging all voters to register their voices in local, state and national elections."

To Interview Candidates.

They urged member societies to be alert and interview candidates on their "positions on issues of the day and that this information be released to churches in the local area."

For the coming 50 years the Nebraska movement, another resolution stated, "consecrates itself anew to its supreme mission, the making of Christ known to the youth of the world thru evangelism, education and service." The golden jubilee convention of the societies closed Sunday.

At council Bluffs resolutions advocating liquor control reform and opposing war were adopted by the Iowa Christian Endeavor union at the conclusion of its annual convention Sunday.

Maryland Farmer Himself Had Buried It

BALTIMORE. (AP). The story behind the man who walked into the federal reserve bank here with an attorney and a fortune in yellowed and long buried bills may never be told, a bank official said. "It probably will take the treasury department several days to examine the money and determine its total," the official said "Then they probably will send a check which we will turn over to the man who brought the money to us." That, he said, would end the bank's interest in the case.

MONUMENT TO CASEY JONES

Reared to the Memory of Heroic Engineer.

CAYCE, Ky. (AP). Almost 40 years after Casey Jones drove the crack Cannon Ball thru three freight cars at Vaughn, Miss., a monument to the storied engineer was dedicated at this town from which Casey got his nickname. Senator Alben Barkley led 2,000 persons in the unveiling of a marker to the memory of the man who died in the crash and who told his Negro fireman, "Jump, Sim, jump; there's two locomotives a-goin' to bump."

Sim Webb, that fireman, stood before the marker with tear filled eyes John Luther Jones, who as a lad 50 years ago romped over the fields of this southwestern Kentucky hamlet, became Casey Jones at a boarding house in Jackson, Tenn. Casey had been transferred there after serving here a few years as an assistant telegraph operator.

Sim told the folks at the dedication how the engine plowed thru a freight train caboose, two carloads of grain and stopped in a carload of lumber. "It wasn't Mistah Casey's fault, tho," Sim explained.

Altho Casey died the passengers in the 12 cars behind him were saved.

FLAMES RAZE PRISON BARRACKS AT GENOA

Damage Estimated Between $15,000, $20,000; Only Walls Remain.

GENOA, Neb. (AP). Supt. P. C. Shockley of the state prison farm estimated here Sunday night between $15,000 and $20,000 damage was caused by a fire which razed the interior of an old barracks building here Saturday night

The fire was discovered about 9 o'clock and it took the combined efforts of fire departments from Genoa, St. Edward and Columbus to bring the flames under control. Only the four brick walls of the old building remained, Shockley said

He said authorities were "at a loss" to determine how the fire started. The building, he said, had been inspected repeatedly for combustibles

The barracks was formerly a dormitory for girls when the old Indian school, discontinued in 1934, was in operation here. It was to have been remodeled into a dormitory to house some of the 109 prisoners at the farm.

Shockley estimated the farm lost 10 percent of the 30,000 cans of vegetables stored in the barracks basement. Further disposition of the razed structure will be up to the board of control, Shockley said. On Oct. 1, fire caused an estimated $1,500 damage to a cold storage plant at the farm.

HAVE you noticed how a dog in the midst of play suddenly stops and rests? His nerve system—as complicated and high-strung as our own—has signalled that it's time to relax! Man, unfortunately is less sensitive to the warnings of his nerves Though nerves may need a restful pause we are inclined to press on in our absorbing tasks—relentlessly—forgetful of mounting nerve strain When we find ourselves tense, irritable, upset, we may not even realize why Don't let tension tie your nerves in a knot Make it your pleasant rule to break nerve tension often through the day—TO LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! ## A JUST COMPLAINT.

The American Federation of Labor convention directed its officers to use their best endeavors to secure amendment to the act creating the national labor relations board. One of the complaints against the board is that it has adopted the communistic ideas of the C. I. O. as represented by the sitdown strike. The federation has carefully excluded communists. Some of them got into it several years ago thru the familiar communistic practice of boring from within, but when they found they could not get into positions of influence they left it when C. I. O. was organized. Taking advantage of the peculiar situation which gave the new organization an opportunity to gain a large number of recruits these communists were able to secure commanding posts in it and no real effort has been made as yet to get rid of them.

The labor relations board insists that it is following closely the pattern of the law that created it, and if this be true there is excellent reason for changing the law. The federation thinks that not only does the law need amendment but that there should be a change in the personnel of the board, which indicates that some of its members are playing the game of the labor communists.

The most glaring illustration of the mental bent of the board is that of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation. For more than a week strikers held possession of the property thru the operation of a sitdown strike. They thumbed their noses at the court order to vacate, and force was necessary to remove them. They resisted to the point where some of them were arrested and fined. Yet the labor relations board ordered them reinstated and that the men hired in their places be discharged. That challenges the spirit of fair play which is at the bottom of all human relations.

The commission which the president sent to Europe reported that in the Scandinavian countries and in England, where labor relations were found to be best, employers and workers, thru control boards and agreements, handled the situation without government dictation. The lessons thus learned should be turned to good account in our handling of an admittedly difficult problem.

RAILROAD TROUBLES.

The conflicting character of the testimony being introduced before the committee created to in a sense mediate between the railroads and their employes makes it impossible for the average layman to put his finger on where the truth lies. Not even the average amount of wages paid employes is agreed upon altho one assumes that the figures were taken from the one source that exists, the payroll. The employes do not question the economic plight of the railroads, but they insist that none of the burden of rehabilitation shall fall on their shoulders. They go further; they say high wages is not an important factor, a rather strange claim in view of the percentage of total costs the cost of labor is in this industry.

President Phillips of the brotherhood of conductors says that the real source of the difficulty is unfair competition, subsidized by the government. He includes highways built for swift and safe operation of trucks, waterways constructed for the purpose of forcing down certain rail schedules, pipe lines and airways. He wants government to stop this policy.

Most persons who are more or less familiar with railway operations have felt that the only way to increase net revenues was to increase gross receipts, and that means higher railroad rates. The companies had the same idea, and asked for a 15 percent increase. They got what amounted in actual practice to 5 percent. A government agency fixes rates. Nebraska officially and thru organized groups opposes every increase asked for by the railroads. One sometimes wonders if a modest increase in rates that would result in greater stability to our transportation system would be much of a price to insure the continuance of efficient rail services and to keep the country from being forced to the only other seeming alternative, that of government ownership and political control and operation.

CRISIS IN FRANCE.

The French demand for dissolution of parliament shows that all is not honey and roses below the surface of French politics. Few realized that the French people and the people of other European nations for that matter, were so determinedly set on peace that they would go to the extremes which have been reached in the preservation of peace in Europe. Few realized that England and France would sacrifice their self-respect, and their allies, to preserve a peace that is not at all secure.

That France did subscribe to the settlement of the problem growing out of Germany's threatened invasion of the Sudeten area in Czechoslovakia was surprising. And that the people of France accepted it not only without noticeable protest but with actual indications of pleasure, was even more startling.

This reaction is partly explainable by the psychology of the moment. France faced a war which nobody really wanted. Troops were being mobilized. France was getting ready to fight a war which became necessary because a distant ally, Czechoslovakia, was threatened with invasion. The point had been reached where France was to give up the lives of many young men for a strip of ground far away in the Balkans.

Suddenly the sunshine of peace broke thru the clouds. Mothers, sisters and sweethearts who had kissed their sons, brothers and lovers goodbye, realized that they were not going to die. It was peace. Peace at a high price, perhaps, but peace regardless. No one wants to go out and die for a strip of land; someone else's land! Life in France is too pleasant, if hectic, for that.

The dawn of peace, even a transitory peace, was received with acclamation. No one is inclined to question peace when it breaks forth suddenly thru the dark clouds just as no one questions the sun when it forces its way thru glowering thunderheads.

After peace is established, however, and the first excitement of the moment has passed, doubts begin to arise. "What price has France paid for peace?" Frenchmen ask each other. The growing doubts bring widespread political uneasiness in a fundamentally uneasy political scene. The demand for dissolution of parliament is but an indication of the need seen for realignment to meet the new crisis in France.

The riot which brought about the wrecking of the palace of Cardinal Innitzer in Vienna is an outgrowth of nazi-hysteria. The cardinal had been critical in his statements concerning recent developments in Austria and the youth of this newly acquired German territory is in the first fever of organization by the nazis. Feeling ran very high and the riots which resulted in considerable damage to church property followed. There is little reason and no tolerance in people in the emotional state in which these young nazis of Vienna are now found.

No peace is in sight in the labor war in the United States. The American Federation of Labor is showing no pronounced willingness to make peace. Bristling attacks on C. I. O. are expected this week. Peace in the labor field demands drastic concessions by the participating parties. Until such time as the two principal labor groups are ready and willing to make such concessions, no peace is on the horizon.

The forts which the Czechs built at great expense to protect their country from the Germans have been turned over peaceably to German troops. They now guard the German frontier. The forts had to be surrendered intact. If found damaged the Czech would have been liable for the damage. They not only had to give up their defense works but had to give them up in first class condition.

Losses from forest fires are blamed on unfavorable weather. Fires and dry weather go together. When the forest is unusually dry the damage from fire is much greater than normal. The estimated 10 percent increase in the forest loss, in spite of more widespread combative efforts than ever before, is attributed to the weather over which no control can be exerted.

A Maryland farmer recently presented himself at a bank with a roll containing $90,000 in the old fashioned, large size currency. The money, rumor has it, was plowed up by accident. The farmer, prudently asked that the bank keep his name secret. Had he not taken this precaution he would have his fields full of fortune hunters digging for treasure.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL.

The state board of agriculture is to receive legislative attention next winter if the several legislative candidates who have expressed themselves on the subject are elected. The self-perpetuating character of the state board has long been a source of criticism, and this has grown stronger as the board has taken to running a gambling plant in connection with the annual fair. The supreme court has held that the board, altho getting money from the state treasury, is a private corporation, and attempts to regulate it may run into snags.

L. T. Brookings, the philosopher of Funk, is taking a little hard the fact that the majority of his fellow citizens voted for waterworks. He says that the chief reason was that the windmills in town have developed senility. He says that in his own case he had grown so soft that the missus has to start and stop the windmill. He fears that the same fate will overtake water users of the future as did the men with the windmills; they developed neuritis starting and stopping them. Turning the water faucet, he says, is certain to cause many a finger to lose its elasticity.

Several lawyers who have had occasion to appear before the state workmen compensation court have been critical for some time of the fact that under the present law an appeal where only the facts are involved is hardly worth while since a reversal on the facts can be secured only where the appellate court holds the evidence insufficient to sustain the judgment. This accords to every compensation court decision the same sanctity as attaches to a jury verdict, and the catch, the protesting attorneys say lies in the fact that the compensation court does not have to observe the rules of evidence that prevail in other tribunals and may admit or reject any evidence they please.

A great deal of regret will be felt over the resignation of Rev. Hugh Lomax, who for eight years has been pastor of the Bethany Christian church. A man of deep spirituality, his sermons have been uniformly inspiring and helpful to those who heard him Sunday after Sunday. His work with the young people of the Christian churches in the state has been outstanding. His many friends in Bethany wish for him the best success and the most congenial surroundings in the work he next undertakes, as yet unannounced.

Walter J. Mann, former Journal employe now at San Francisco, sends samples of "ezeemuny certificates" now being widely circulated in California to kid the $30 a week every Thursday movement. It certifies that "there is on deposit in the pot at the end of the rainbow 20 wooden nickles." It is signed by Pass De Buck, comptroller, and Ham N. Eggs treasurer. It is labeled as "for use in Bankrupting state treasury, state employes, county treasurer, city treasurer, city employes, publicly owned utilities, bay bridge, school teachers, school districts you-me everyone else." It also bears the designation: "this certificate is illegal tender for private debt," issued by the 'State of Confusion.'" Mr. Mann writes that it is effective in showing up the ridiculous character of the scheme.

President Ferguson of the American Library association said, in a brief talk at the governor's mansion Sunday, that in the last few years the methods of administration and aims of public libraries had materially changed, and that the problem now is to integrate library service with other educational programs so as to reduce the cost and increase efficiency. This program is being fostered by the national association. It means that the public library will more and more leave to the private lending libraries the circulation of the greater portion of the tremendous volume of fiction now being issued, and emphasize information and education. This was one of the recommendations of Surveyor Spaulding to the Lincoln board.

FOOTNOTES.

Spare your pity for the crippled child, Dr. Frank R. Ober, Boston orthopedist, advises, reports the Kansas City Star. Treat such a child as much as possible like you would treat a child with normal limbs or back.

"Let him mix with other children, fight his own battles and receive no special favors or attention other than are absolutely necessary because of his handicap," the kindly bone doctor says as he puffs at his pipe. "The child will thank you for it some day, if he has the proper stuff in him. One way to make a mental invalid out of a physical invalid is to baby him thru sentimental kindliness and attract unnecessary notice to his handicap.

"There are, generally, three types of crippled persons: those who have become ugly thru bitterness over their handicap and failure to rise above it; those who sit sweetly in a wheel chair and are content to be waited on, and those who go ahead with a life's program, who beat their handicap, who compensate for paralyzed limbs or body with a better brain. Of course, the president is a fine example of the latter group."

Surgery and medicine are working hard to improve means of helping crippled persons whose affliction has not warped their minds, Dr. Ober adds. Those afflicted mentally are best cared for in institutions, and he tells parents who have a mentally afflicted as well as physically crippled child, to place it in an institution and devote their lives to care of normal children they may have.

But the physically crippled who are mentally sound can be helped to a near normal life staying in the home, and medical science can do a lot for many cases. Operations to lengthen tendons and stabilize foot bones improve some. Nerve sectioning helps others by easing stiff muscles. For severe spastic paralysis, spinal operations have been developed with considerable success the last five years. Then there are exercises to improve unsteady walking and speech. Mechanical apparatus of various kinds has been improved.

Most cases of crippling are from attacks of infantile paralysis, from birth injuries to the brain, and, to a limited extent, crippling from tubercular and other bone infections or inflammations. The arthritic cripple presents another problem. Some degrees of spastic paralysis result not from birth injuries, but from complications following mumps, whooping cough and appendicitis.

Between the bone surgeon, the nerve and brain surgeon, and the internal medicine man who can relieve pain and help arthritic crippling to some extent, the world of crippled people can take new hope, Dr. Ober summarizes. He believes the psychological factor is immensely important.

"Arthritic disability is so often brought on by emotional disturbances," he emphasizes. "The doctor is a detective who must treat each such patient with patience and encouragement. He can find attacks induced sometimes by chronic fatigue, or bad diet, or a dead tooth, bad tonsil, or gland imbalance. He has to sort and observe until he finds the most likely precipitating cause.

"And above all, he must keep the patient hopeful. The right mental condition helps digestion, which improves nutrition, which fights arthritis. All sorts of treatments, by vaccines, serums, heat, water and drugs, may be used, but the idea is to watch each carefully and keep the patient from despondency."

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Address questions, stamped envelope enclosed, to Frederic J. Haskin, Journal Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Q. How many soldiers of the A. E. F. remained in France permanently after the war was over?

A. Bernard Ragner in the New York Times says: According to figures compiled by the Paris post of the American Legion, slightly more than 1,500 members of the Never-Go-Home Battalion of the A. E. F. still reside in France, altho it will soon be 20 years since the World war was brought to an end by the armistice at Rethondes. Most of them are married to French wives; most of them never returned to the United States, and many of them will be exiles until they die; and yet, not a single one of them has given up United States citizenship.

Q. What is a perfect number?

A. A perfect number is a number, the sum of whose divisors is equal to the number. Six is such a number, since one plus two plus three equals six. From 1 to 40,000,000 there are only seven perfect number.

Q. When were iron rails first used by railroads in this country?

A. The first solid iron rails were imported from England in 1831 and were 18 feet long.

Q. Does the word dietitian imply college training?

A. A dietitian, as officially defined by the executive committee of the American Dietetic association, is one trained in an institution of college grade in the science of nutrition and the art of feeding.

Q. How long has King Carol of Rumania known Madame Lupescu?

A. They met in 1923. At that time she was the wife of an army officer whom she subsequently divorced.

Q. What newspaper had an exclusive story on Robert Irwin's confession of the murder of Veronica Gedeon?

A. Irwin telephoned his confession to the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Q. What is the predominating color of blossoms?

A. It has been estimated that in an average collection of 1,000 plants about 284 have white flowers, 220 red, 141 blue, 73 violet, 36 green, 12 orange, 4 brown, and 2 black.

DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON—Whatever else the recent European war crisis may have done to shape policies of governments thruout the world, it may be taken for granted that, at the next session of congress, there will come the biggest debate on national defense which the United States has experienced in 20 years.

For, little by little, the military and naval aspects of the Czechoslovakian episode are beginning to be discussed here in terms of what are the real dangers of a powerful offense of airplanes against a country with far-flung boundaries. In high quarters here, the view is advanced that the principal reason why Prime Minister Chamberlain avoided war was that England was unprepared for air attack to the extent that would have been necessary against the German air force.

All sorts of reasons have been advanced for Mr. Chamberlain's conciliatory attitude toward Hitler, and one may believe whatever one pleases about that sort of diplomacy, but what is significant now is the argument being made here that England and France were both more vulnerable than their own peoples realized and that the Germans knew it all the time.

If one believes that physical force rules the world today and that the Munich agreement does not represent an exercise of self-restraint by heads of governments of a will to peace, but merely a truce, then the problem of national defense enters conspicuously into the situation for discussion by the experts.

One man who ought to be familiar with our own national defense situation and who has had quite a background of experience with the subject told this correspondent that his own inquiries in England last summer confirmed his present belief that the Munich accord was the direct result of British and French unpreparedness. Transferring the problem to America, this same expert, who, by the way, has no connection with the army or navy or the manufacture or sale of war supplies or airplanes, pointed out that, from a strategic point of view, the United States has many lessons to learn from Britain's experience. Thus, he declared, an aircraft carrier can approach the shores of Nova Scotia, let loose a few bombing planes, which could destroy our factories in Detroit, and return to the mother ship the same day.

More and more, the question of locating munition plants and airplane factories in interior points is being given consideration by military experts. The question of anti-aircraft defense is likely to be discussed more widely now than even before. Certainly, the theory that anti-aircraft guns constitute a sufficient defense depends on the quantity of such weapons and the ability to locate them at all important points where air attack might possibly occur.

The best defense against an air force would seem to be a powerful air force of defense with sufficient pursuit planes to scout and locate planes of the slower and heavier sort which are used for bombing. But, nowadays, it is not enough merely to have a set number of planes of all types—the factories themselves which can assure a steady supply of planes must be available and well protected against air attack.

My informant, for instance, mentioned that England had long been urged to give attention to the building of airplane factories in dominion areas, such as Canada, with the expectation that planes could be shipped in parts and assembled in England. More aircraft carriers for the navies of the world are undoubtedly going to be needed as convoys to battleships or merchants ships. Indeed, the whole plan of national defense is undergoing rapid changes nowadays because of the intensive development of aircraft warfare on the European continent.

Under such circumstances, America even with two oceans can no longer place reliance on a navy as the first line of defense. Not only is there as much need, but more need for naval power, because the new element—air attack—introduces different problems even for the United States as the non-stop cruising radius of airplanes is constantly being increased. With the development of a powerful combination of aircraft carriers and supporting naval craft, no country, not even the United States, can be absolutely sure of its defenses unless it has more of the same thing than a potential enemy. Anyway, the senate and house will have plenty to talk about when new armament is up for appropriation next January.

ARMY SARTORIAL SPLENDOR.

Des Moines Register: Oct. 1 has come and gone and still our army is not fully clad in the new uniforms. The full wardrobe costs $294.50, which the officers pay themselves. But Solomon in all his glory was never arrayed like one of these.

A dark blue blouse is matched by light blue trousers with a two-inch stripe running down the leg—deep blue for infantry, red for field artillery, yellow for cavalry, and gold and blue for the air corps. Gold braid on the sleeves indicates the rank, and for formal occasions there is a gold belt, probably sterilized in accordance with the United States treasury regulations.

The uniform of Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff, which he is required to design himself tops even these. It consists of a double-breasted blouse with two rows of gold buttons spaced in groups of four. The sleeves, of slashed type, are ornamented with black velvet carrying gold oak leaves and four silver stars.

Gold embroidery riots over the standing collar, gold stripes decorate the trousers, and a gold buckle fastens a black belt.

This farewell to khaki should hearten every American pacifist. Our fighting forces will never go to war in uniforms like these. They couldn't afford to.

THE PUBLIC MIND.

A Champion of the Onion Arises to Defend It From Attack.

LINCOLN.—Several days ago in an editorial item you called attention to the statement of Dr. Cutter that "the onion has no antiseptic properties," and "thus another time worn belief goes by the board." I have analyzed onions relative to other foods as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Vitamin C. | 6 | Calcium | 2 |
| Vitamin D. | 5. | Magnesium | 2 |
| Hydrogen | 4 | Iron | 2 |
| Silicon | 4 | Potassium | 1 |

Onions are a great relief in coughs and colds. They are a help in influenza and consumption. Use them for scurvy, gravel, kidney stones and skin diseases. Onions tone up the liver and do away with liver spots. Onions are good for the nerves. They tend to whiten the skin. Said to be a relief in hydrophobia. Eat onions for insomnia. Onions are nature's invigorator and bone strengthener. Onions brace us up and give us courage. Eat lots of raw onions—either the fresh green ones out of the hand, or slice the big ones and put in your salads. But always eat them raw.

This was written after several years of use of raw onions. God knew how to make an onion! It isn't an onion if you cook it. When you take the wheels off a wagon, it is no longer a wagon. And so when you kill the life and drive out the vitamins in an onion by cooking, it cannot run around and do the things for you that it is wont to do. Raw onions are eliminators and dissolvers. They helped me get rid of a lot of kidney stones. Ten years of experience in the use of onions have proven to me their eliminative qualities and healthfulness. I never before heard it said an onion was antiseptic. Try lemon for antiseptic qualities.

Men in Office Several Years Get Out of Touch Both With Themselves and People.

LINCOLN.—The facts brought out by Mr. Bryan, in his Lincoln radio address, in my opinion, were good and to the point. He seems to know how to address the people by appealing to their intelligence; not to their prejudices by howling about what the opposition did. In his references to third termers, it reminded the writer what Thomas Paine said over 150 years ago, in speaking of the proposed constitution, in his "Rights of Man." "There is no provision made for rotation, nor anything to prevent the perpetuity of office in the same hands for life; which by a little well-timed bribery, will probably be done, to the exclusion of the men of the best abilities from their share of the offices of government. By this neglect we lose the advantage of this check to the overbearing insolence of office, keeps the minds of men in equilibrio, and better qualifies him to govern again."

This is about what people in general have in mind, who object to three terms for a chief executive. To which I wish to add; let every chief executive take a vacation from office after two terms, "to teach him the feeling of the governed." If he does not choose to do so, the people should, thru the ballot, make the proper arrangements for him. Any man who has held public office for a term of years is bound to get out of touch with both himself and the people.

WOW! Should I Holler I Just Won A Dollar

Bill Lee Had Backache
He Had It Bad
He Bet Me a Dollar
Today BILL'S Darn Glad

I'll say he's glad it's like this—Bill had backache—had it good and plenty—did no work for two days.

So last night I walked over to see Bill—that backache had sure took Bill bad.

"Every time I move," says Bill "pains shoot all thru my back—sometimes so terrible I think I'm going to pass out."

"Why don't you get a doctor?" says I to Bill.

"Why don't I get one of those 16 cylinder machines," Bill answered—"you know darn well I ain't worked 10 weeks in a year—be yourself," says Bill.

"I've worked less," says I, "but we've got to do something—so I started my old bean to work.

Well, to cut a long story short—I remembered my Dad had often boasted about a medicine called OMEGA OIL that he claimed would bring ease and comfort to painful, aching back muscles, even bad enough to be called lumbago—so I said to Bill—

"Bet you a dollar I'll have you on the job tomorrow morning"—give me 35 cents.

"It's in my pants pocket and the dollar too," says Bill—"Get it and get it quick—I want to work—I want to see another pay envelope."

So I goes to the nearest drugstore—gets my 35 cent bottle of Omega Oil, which the druggist said was good and powerful—penetrating and medicated and hustled back to Bill.

I rolled him over—He yelled murder when I did—but I gave his back a darn good rubbing—and that's how I won my dollar—but I'm giving it back to my old pal Bill tonight—Omega Oil is tops for backache—Bill says so and Bill knows.—Adv.

DR. BRADY'S HEALTH TALK.

I have learned in many years of experience that the most effective health education comes not from the specialist nor from the dilettante medical man whose repute depends on his ability as a writer or a speaker, but from the quiet, plodding practitioner.

Quite by the way and incidental to the subject of his letter, a physician of many years experience thus illuminates the much abused principle of focal infection:

In a recent article, you spoke of removing "death teeth." Man came complaining of pains in shoulders, arms, legs and back, of more than two years duration. He had been compelled to give up his regular job and take a job at lower wages as watchman.

Among other things his physician had insisted on having most of his teeth extracted. The "dentor" who extracted them protested that "If those teeth were mine they would not be taken out, as they are perfectly sound." But the physician insisted, and the teeth were removed. Next they persuaded the patient to have his tonsils removed, altho he had never had sore throat and was unaware of any trouble in the tonsils.

The patient also suffered with low grade cystitis.

From this plan of treatment he obtained no appreciable relief.

In my examination I found septic looking hemorrhoids. I treated the hemorrhoids by injection, cleared up some infected crypts, and told the patient to wait and see. In two weeks when I examined him again, he reported that the pains in shoulders, arms, neck and legs had left him except a little back ache, and the cystitis was less troublesome than at any time for a year or more.

The case illustrates the value of including a rectal examination as part of the routine physical examination of patients with presumptive focal infection. Any doctor could have obtained the same result as I did. The trouble is that the average man too readily blames the tonsils, teeth or a mysterious "intestinal toxemia" for such complaints as this patient presented, and never gives a thought to one of the most common causes of aching joints, aching muscles, neuralgic pains, "lumbago," "sciatica," bladder irritations, etc., which should suggest rectal pathology.

For the delectation of the dentist who complains to the world that "Brady is still trying to tell the dental profession when to extract pulpless teeth," I commend my ignorance and the existing difference of opinion among physicians and among dentors on the question. To the dentor who protested that the teeth would remain in the mouth if they were his teeth, my compliments. To the dentor who, believing that, nevertheless extracted the teeth under the "orders" of the physician, a hearty Bronx cheer every time he calls himself "Doctor."

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

It would be winter soon. Altho the daytime hours were still hot and cloudless the house was cold at night, and the leaves were falling everywhere.

"Ben, let's go to the barn dance," Joyce suggested at a November breakfast table in the kitchen.

William Ballard had finished his breakfast and was melting something tarry and odorous on the stove. Lissy and Dodo were still curled up warmly in their beds upstairs, sound asleep in the late sunrise that was striking in shafts of crystal across the yard. But Ben had been routed out half an hour ago by his father for Michael was helping in the barns, and he was needed for the trip to town this morning, and Sally was leaning against the sink, facing the room, watching the others and occasionally putting in a word. Lastly Michael had come in and was seated at the end of the table, enormously enjoying what he said was his second breakfast, but what Joyce suspected was his first as well.

Ben received the suggestion coldly. "Let's not, and say we did."

"Come on, Ben. It'd be such fun!" Michael spoke briefly.

"You don't want to go to a barn dance," he said.

Joyce's dancing eyes were turned upon him.

"Oh, why not?"

"It isn't as much fun as it sounds."

"Well, I wouldn't expect it to be the Junior league," Joyce reminded him. "It's just girls and men dancing isn't it?"

"I know. But most of the nice ones don't go to it and a lot of others come in from everywhere—it gets to be rather a riot."

"I think it would be fun. I like to see the way they do things!" Joyce persisted stubbornly. In the end she talked Ben into taking her.

Supper at the ranch was at six, but before that on the night of the dance Joyce and Ben were ready to go. The barn dance began with a hearty meal at half past five and the dancing would be well under way by seven.

"So that every one gets home early," Joyce suggested.

"Well—in a way—" Michael said. He would stay at home and play bridge.

Joyce wore Lissy's fur coat over her taffeta; she looked her loveliest.

"The village belle!" she called back to Michael as they started. Michael did not smile as he watched them go

The winter day was closing down to dusk; there was a hard cold darkening sky overhead, and the taste of frost was in the air Cars were twinkling in radiating lines toward the common destination that was the Jellicoes new enormous hay barn; their lights fingered the roads and the trees, showed the plain little Jellicoe homestead and the windmill, swept up against the trees and the hills, were dimmed close to the great open doors.

From outside the place seemed but dimly lit, but once inside Joyce found herself in a pleasant bustle that was quite sufficiently lighted; two or three great locomotive lamps were swung from the clean high rafters; there were smaller lanterns everywhere, and a string of Japanese paper lanterns some dozen yards long was looped over the place that had been cleaned for dancing in the center of the floor. Apron and ice cream cone and popcorn and gift booths were all separately and individually lighted.

Off the main enormous space was a wagon barn with four box stall and in her Joyce found long tables upon which women were spreading eatables of every variety; the smell of the coffee was pleasant in the air. Every one was ravenous and every one was being put off until Mrs. Boggs got the punch ready. Joyce flung herself into the scene with her characteristic friendly energy; the older women liked her at once. A dimpled pink cheeked plump girl with incredibly golden hair and the engaging name of Bootsy Florence instantly appropriated Ben, and Joyce saw that his first silly banter with Bootsy presently changed into something more real, and that he and Bootsy were drinking each other's health enthusiastically.

The punch circulated; Joyce didn't know where the time flew to, but she was eating her first delicious piece of cold fried chicken at 8 o'clock, and only a few moments later, dancing, heard the whistle that meant that the prize dances were beginning at half past nine.

She danced joyously, inexhaustibly, with one tall big farmer after another.

The radio and a loud speaker supplied the music; the girls and men sang as they danced. Michael, Joyce reflected, had been right about one thing: there were a good many roughs here who did not belong to this neighborhood at all, and their girls were dreadful. The men pressed their faces against the girls faces as they circled about the wide pine floor that was new and raw and yellow under the lights; as the evening wore on they disappeared couple by couple for long absences; they went out to sit in the cars and kiss and embrace each other. The air was hot in the barn; long draughts of the icy punch were absolutely indispensable. When one stepped out under the cold hard sky the night air felt deliciously fresh and sweet.

Two young men, Bill and Podge, were making the evening entertaining for Joyce. She never had seen either before tonight, but she could call them only Bill and Podge because they hilariously refused to give her other names. Both were big and good looking and rapid and violent dancers; both admired Joyce and when one was dancing with her the other waited. Between dances they rushed her about, got her sandwiches, cake or punch.

Adventure in Shadowland

A Visit to the Wise Men

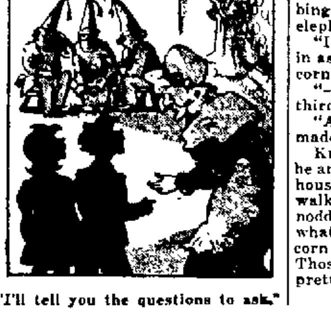
By MAX TRELL

"ASK US a question . . . any question . . . the hardest question in the world. We'll answer it!" the three wise men of Gotham said to Knarf and Hanid. But the two shadow-children didn't know what question to ask them. Sometimes, you see, it is as hard to think of a question as it is to think of the answer.

Finally, Mother Goose, who had been smiling all the while, took the two shadow-children aside. Then she whispered to them: "I'll tell you the questions they want you to ask them. Hanid will ask: 'What are little boys made of?' And Knarf will ask: 'What are little girls made of?' "

So Hanid and Knarf went back to the three wise men of Gotham, who were sitting on three little stools.



"I'll tell you the questions to ask."

"What are little boys made of?" Hanid asked.

"Little boys . . . h'mm . . . that is a hard one. What are little boys made of? Just let me see—"

"Oh, I know," the second wise man broke in suddenly, "I know exactly what they're made of. They're made of snaps and snails—"

"—and puppy-dogs' tails!" the third wise man cried.

It's Knarf's Turn

"And that's what little boys are made of!" they all shouted together. "And now ask us your question," they said, turning to Knarf.

Knarf thought for a moment. Then a sly look came into his face. "All right," he said. "What are little elephants made of? There!" he said triumphantly. "Answer that, if you can!"

"What are elephants made of?" the first wise man repeated, rubbing the top of his head. "What are elephants made of . . . ?"

"I know!" the second man broke in as before. "They're made of popcorn and candy—"

"—and all that's dandy!" the third wise man cried.

"And that's what elephants are made of!" they all shouted.

Knarf didn't say anything until he and Hanid had left the wise men's house with Mother Goose and were walking toward the town. Then he nodded his head. "I guess that's what elephants are made of. Popcorn and candy, and all that's dandy. Those three wise men of Gotham are pretty wise after all!"

Your Problems

By Mary Gordon.

Dear Mary Gordon: Seldom indeed do I read problem corners, never before have I written to one, but this subject of a happy childhood, made me stop and think of a number of things. A childhood spent on a western ranch, the oldest of seven, long winter evenings, long summer days. Living in a rambling old ranch house, miles from town, miles from neighbors, miles from school. A pretty mother, with a song like a lark—I can hear her dear feet yet as they went here and there to do for us, to make us happy, to meet us at the door, to send us on our way with her kiss.

My tall father who could rope and ride, who was wise in the lore of the classics, who studied to be a doctor and taught us all about the world with a blade of grass and a dew drop. He read Shakespeare aloud in the long winter evening and he made us personally acquainted with Sir Walter Scott and John Milton.

Their tenderness for each other, their reward for a hard day—a smile, a touch. My mother saying one day, "How his coming brightens the day," the memory of him telling us once as we waited beside him, she very ill, and the singing voice was only a queer choking noise in a closed room—"Your mother--"—his fine voice broke—"your mother is the finest woman God ever made"—she came back to us and he went in and shut the door. I felt his arms around his yellow rose of Texas, for that was his pet name for her.

Happy childhood, nay a perfect one. There never was a sorrow that they could not heal. There never was a problem that they could not solve. There never was a fear that they could not allay. They taught us to fear nothing, love each other, tell the truth and be proud we were Americans with six generations of Americans back of us, the finest blood in the land. They taught us to be pioneers in any work we did and seek the better plans, the frontiers of the mind that we might conquer. They gave us all a college education, they gave us happiness, peace, joy and hope. They gave us a formula to live by and we are still seven. We are happy men and women, we have families, they are being raised as we were raised, and the childhood we had has helped us meet life and make of life a glorious adventure, a thing which we can conquer and have. The youngest brother was selected out of 1,200 young men to enter a great organiaztion and be given two more years of school. There he listened to lectures by scientists and scholars. His highest praise for the best of them was, "He made me think of Dad, but of course he wasn't as good as Dad."

The baby of the family is a girl. She won a scholarship to a great European university. There she heard the finest music in the world, and she wrote home, "It makes me feel as I used to feel when we were all at home around the fire on a winter evening and mother would start singing and we would all join in."

A happy childhood, I had it indeed. It has left its mark on me in the imponderables of life—I love life, people, nature, music—and all because two fine young people some 40 years ago, loved each other with a very great love, wanted children, had them, gave them what they could, never too much of the material things, but so rich in the things of the spirit that seven lives have gone out into this world to make it a better place to live in, and so this is my contribution.

A happy childhood makes life a joyous thing to meet, there is nothing to fear, the training of childhood has taken care of that, and even if sorrow may come, there are the wonderful memories and down the road, there will be Dad and Mommie—waiting just as they used to wait for us when we came home from school. We will have much to tell, as we did then, of our day's work—our life's work and then light and music and each other around the table and all together again—and that will be Heaven.—A Happy Woman Who Was a Happy Child.

A. It is heartening to find that some children have the sort of home and training they remember with joy. Sometimes a person comes to feel that perhaps the whole of mankind gets its aberrations and neuroses from selfish, unintelligent parents.

Indigestion Often Due to Nerves

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN
President, Chicago Board of Health

"I GOT SO excited, I broke out in a rash." You have probably heard someone make that statement, and it may be true.

There are certain skin disorders, known as neurodermatoses (nu' ro-der-mat-o' ses), which are the result of this nerve strain. There is a condition, called vasomotor (va-so-mo' tor) instability, in which there are such symptoms as dizziness, fainting and itching skin which is produced by nerve strain.

This same vasomotor instability may cause many persons to experience what they, themselves, have recognized as "nervous indigestion". It may come through worry, overwork, excitement or the emotional strain of great unhappiness or great joy.

This condition of irritable stomach and bowels may develop in persons of any age and is just as frequent in men as in women. In this disorder there are such symptoms as attacks of sickness to the stomach with vomiting. There frequently is a great deal of belching. There are rumbling and gurgling noises in the intestine which often annoy and embarrass the individual. There also are alternating attacks of loose stools and constipation. Because of the constipation, the individual may get into the habit of taking laxatives which merely irritate the intestine and make the trouble worse.

Due to Colon Spasm

According to Doctor S. S. Pinto, of Omaha, Nebraska, pain in the abdomen is also a frequent occurrence in this condition. This is a colicky pain due to a spasm of the colon or large intestine. The pain is sharp and may occur at any point within the abdomen. In some cases the pain always occurs in one spot, but more often it is noticed in various parts of the abdomen. A great deal of gas is formed in the stomach and bowels. Pressure on the abdomen usually is painful because the colon is tender.

In treating this disorder, Doctor Pinto suggests that the patient be given some mild sedative, such as 10 grains of sodium bromide, three or four times a day. Tincture of belladonna (bel-ah-don'ah), 10 drops three times a day, may be given by the doctor to relieve the pain brought on by the spasm of the intestine.

An acute attack of pain in the abdomen, he says, may be relieved by breathing in amyl nitrite (am' il ni' trit). However, this preparation is rarely needed because the pain, as a rule, is not so severe as to cause great distress.

If there is a great deal of pain and distress, the diet should be limited to boiled milk, barley gruel and crackers. Then, as the pain becomes less severe, other foods, such as toast, white bread, rice and custard, may be employed.

Marriage Meddlers

By Adele Garrison

AT MARY'S query, and more especially at the tone which clothed it, I felt a recurrence of the doubting chill which had swept me at her reaction to the news that Philip Veritzen knew nothing of Noel's trip to the city to see her.

"We haven't set any particular limit on his stay," I said slowly.

"But," she asked, her tone holding a sudden shrillness, of which I think she was unconscious, "what will happen to my work?"

"Nothing," I said soothingly. "I shall be at the same hotel, you know, only in a different suite. We can go on with the daily drill just the same."

Her face did not lighten, and I stared at her with chilled amazement.

"No, we can't," she said with conviction in her voice.

"Why not?" I answered, conscious of a certain uncontrollable acerbity in my voice.

"Because", she said with decision, "you don't know Noel."

Madge Is Amazed

I had no answer for her, not even the repetition of the question. I could only stare at her in unbelieving amazement.

"You mustn't get me wrong," she said, and I realized that she had sensed the disapproval I was feeling. "You ought to know how terribly glad I shall be to see Noel again."

There was the same shy rapture in her face and eyes which had greeted my first announcement that her young husband was in the city, anxiously awaiting a reunion with her. I breathed more freely, but her next words made my pulses again constrict with the fear of a minute before.

"But," she went on slowly, "I don't know how I'm going to manage to get my work done, nevertheless. You see—" her hands began to twist nervously, one over the other, with a movement as if she were washing them "—Noel isn't exactly enthusiastic about my work. To tell you the truth, I think he's a little jealous of it. And I just know that if we were together, and I wanted to take time out to rehearse—hours and hours, as I do every day—he'd be hurt and sulky, and we might wind up in a row. And wouldn't that be lovely?"

First Criticism

"No, that wouldn't be very pleasant," I said mechanically, wondering if Mary realized how much she was revealing to me. It was the first criticism of her husband I ever had heard her utter, and I was not surprised the next instant to hear her voice frantically beseeching me to "forget it".

"I don't know what made me say that," she said. "I really don't mean it a bit. Noel's terribly sweet, and I'm sure everything will be all right. Promise me you won't hint anything to him of what I said."

"Of course not, Mary," I assured her sincerely. But I promised myself that while I would betray no hint of her words or feeling to Noel, I certainly would put him through "a course of sprouts" on his proper attitude to Mary's work before we even broached the subject of a rehearsal to him.

"If you don't mind," I said hesitatingly, "don't say anything to him about your work until I have a chance to talk to him. Don't worry!"—she gave a little start of dismay—"I shan't give him the slightest hint that you have said anything to me, but I think I can manage so that he won't object to your work. Will you leave it all to me?"

Knock Interrupts

"You know I'll be glad to, you best of all good aunts," she said. "And, somehow, I have faith that you will be able to work miracles. I've seen you in action before, you know. And it would be too, too divine to be able to see Noel without letting my practising suffer. Otherwise—"

She did not finish her sentence, but I pretended not to notice the abrupt breaking off of her voice.

"I'll do my best," I told her, ignoring her last word. "And here comes our hot milk," as a knock sounded upon the door. "Get into bed at once, and I'll bring you a drink of the milk and the sedative."

Backfield Problems Mount With Five Ball Carriers In Hospital

I May Be Wrong

by JOHN BENTLEY

Cornhusker Football Team
Lincoln Neb
Dear Gang

Everything else has been tried including too many double reverses and we're still on the wrong side of the ledger so I'm going to break out this form of literature It worked last year

It was one of those days when even the stadium clock wouldn't work That was the longest first quarter in the history of football I think But it was nothing compared to the third period when the Iowans blocked that kick of Hopp's for a safety and then began using that double lateral forward pass that you couldn't solve

We didn't deserve to beat Iowa State last year by a two touchdown margin and that sort of thing has a habit of evening up in the game of football

Indiana is coming here Saturday and the Hoosiers are licking the same sort of wounds Bo McMillin's team has been beaten twice Undoubtedly Bo has much the same sort of eleven as you fellows are — plenty of potential ability but lacking in experience The difference is that the Hoosiers having been walloped here twice running have more incentive to shoot Saturday than Nebraska

Don't let 'em tell you that the Big Six race is over There are likely to be several upsets around the loop this season and one loss —if you Huskers can hold it to one —may win a clear cut crown or at least a share of the title

I imagine you've all played this one over in your minds and it's doubtful if it got any better They say one Lincoln minister in his Sunday sermon used the disorganized play of the Husker team to illustrate a point as he told of the need for a 'balanced life'

The grandstand quarterbacks were yowling because Biff sent in so many of you fellows But if that last touchdown march in the fourth quarter hadn't bogged after Herman Rohrig was hurt you would have heard hosannas from every section It then would have been a masterful handling of troops There is nothing sweeter than the second guess

It's my own opinion that Biff did have the right idea in keeping fresh men in there The blocking on offensive plays didn't become effective until too late—and then it was spotted And the protection you offered punters and passers was about as effective as three sheets of tissue paper But you know about that and you'll hear more about it this week as Biff and his aides try to collect the loose ends

Best story in connection with the game was that Bill Horween, now a stockbroker in Chicago but one time coach at Harvard gave Jim Yeager Iowa State coach considerable help in preparing for Nebraska There was a reason as Horween's Harvard team had lost to Army 7 to 0 in 1928 and Biff was then coaching the Cadets The facts remain that the Iowans tossed some new stuff at the Huskers which the scouts hadn't seen Yeager had been using a punt formation in the first two games but switched this to a box with a man in motion when he came here You'll see some more of this same offensive stuff this week boys because Yeager played at Kansas State under McMillin and naturally absorbed some of Bo's strategy

I guess you noticed that the sun came up Sunday morning You'll get better than you were against Iowa State—if you want to! Sincerely JOHN BENTLEY

BY WALTER E DOBBINS

Nebraska U football stock at a low ebb after its 8 to 7 reverse at the hands of Iowa State was no brighter on blue Monday when a checkup revealed that five of Maj Biff Jones' ball carriers had spent the week end in the college infirmary

Quarterback George Porter appeared to be the most seriously hurt His injuries were of an internal nature and probably will keep the Denver Colo signal caller out of the picture for a week or two

Halfback Herman Rohrig the Scarlet's flashy sophomore altho released from the hospital Monday morning is still a question mark as far as the Indiana game was concerned Rohrig was bumped on the head in the fourth period and was out of his head when removed from the game

Wibbels and Petsch

Edsel Wibbels and Roy Petsch suffered leg injuries and the big boy from Wolbach was still in the infirmary at noon Monday Petsch was released to attend classes Marvin Plock still nursing a leg injury incurred in the Minnesota game likewise was in the college hospital

All of which only added to Maj Biff Jones troubles and worries

Coach Lewandowski back from seeing Indiana bow to Illinois posted another warning

IOWA STATE PLANS TO STAY UP IN AIR

Victors Over Nebraska Will Meet Missouri This Week

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

KANSAS CITY (AP) Iowa State still up in the air over its 8 to 7 victory over Nebraska planned to stay there the rest of the week That's where the football will be Saturday when the Cyclones meet Missouri at Columbia in the second Big Six games for both teams

As Iowa State will be trying to intercept Missouri's passes and Missouri will be trying to intercept Everett Kischer Oklahoma and Kansas will be making their conference debuts at Lawrence in a game which appears to have a distinct Oklahoma flavor

Nebraska and Kansas State go outside the conference for their competition Nebraska will be an underdog against Indiana at Lincoln Kansas State meets Marquette at Milwaukee Friday night in what should be a bang up ball game with Kansas State rating an even chance if not a slight edge

On the records Iowa State rates an edge over Missouri but it all depends on the Cyclones ability to do something about Paul Christman's passes besides wave at them The Missouri sophomore is a marvelous marksman but the experience of the Iowa State team as a whole should more than counteract that Tiger threat There should be plenty of scoring all around however

Best Sooner Record

Oklahoma's record is the best of any conference team so far and if any eleven is in a favored spot in the six team race it is the Sooners Kansas looked good against Texas and Washburn but that Notre Dame misfortune casts doubt on the Jayhawk ability to survive under fire However Ad Lindsey's boys weren't given a chance last year yet they won 6 to 3

Iowa State's victory over Nebraska stole the spotlight last week It was a mild upset at the best as it was known Jim Yeager had a first string which he would stack up against any team The question was whether the Cyclone first string could stand the pace It could

Kansas State and Missouri staged a thriller with the more powerful Kansans taking a 21 to 13 decision At that Kansas State fans had the jitters all day as Christman threw strikes

Oklahoma subdued Texas must as expected 13 to 0 and Kansas took it out on Washburn 58 to 11

ALUMNI MUST AID IOWA'S HAWKEYES

Student Editor Blames Losses on Financial Worries, Empty Stomachs

IOWA CITY Ia (UP) The University of Iowa's sad football plight —exemplified in its 31 13 homecoming loss to Wisconsin set off an explosive repercussion in a front page editorial appearing in the Daily Iowan school newspaper Sunday

Editor John Mooney placed the whole problem squarely in the lap of the alumni He asserted that financial worries which resulted in malnutrition and lack of sleep for the Hawkeye players largely was responsible for Iowa's consistent losses

The University of Iowa can't help athletes no matter how deserving they may be the editorial said It's up to the alumni to take up the torch and see that the men representing the University of Iowa get support from them in a big way

If a miracle could raise the great Knute Rockne from the grave and put him at the Iowa helm he would fare the same as Coach Tubbs did

'Psychology and trick plays go for naught when the men on the field have financial worries and empty stomachs

Mooney pictured the typical needy football player as having to devote 14 hours daily to a job classes study and football leaving him only 10 hours for sleep and recreation

Cleveland Downs Chicago Club, 14-7, Redskins Bow in East

NEW YORK (AP) The last untarnished record in the National Pro Football league was thoroly smudged as the rejuvenated Cleveland Rams handed the Chicago Bears their first defeat of the season, 14 to 7 The Bears however retained the Western division lead while the Washington Redskins were knocked off the top perch in the Eastern division when the New York Giants handed them a 10 to 7 setback

Altho the Bears looked better in the statistics Cleveland's last ditch defense and clever passing won the game A forward-lateral passing play Stan Pincura to Ray Hamilton to Jules Alphonse brought a touchdown in the first quarter and Carl Littlefield recovered Carl Brumbaugh's fumble and raced 23 yards for another in the third period The Bears came back with a 63 yard scoring drive that sent Bert Johnson over then traveled 73 yards only to fail on an incomplete pass over the goal

Howell Tallies

Trailing 3 to 10 going into the final period against Washington the Giants moved down the field on a series of short passes by Ed Danowski to make the winning touchdown on a flip to Howell Sammy Baugh pitched one to Masterson for Washington's score after Ward Cuff had booted a field goal

Ace Parker as usual was the main cog in Brooklyn's scoring machine Besides passing 54 yards to Jeff Barrett for one touchdown and galloping 77 yards off tackle for another he held the ball for Ralph Kercheval's field goal and booted one point after touchdown Whizzer White who gained 116 yards in 36 tries against Parker's 103 yards in 15 attempts collaborated with Wilbur Sortet on a 50 yard forward pass play for the Pirate score

Detroit surprisingly held the edge over Green Bay all the way after Regis kicked a first period field goal The Lions made it 10 to 0 on a 60 yard drive and added a final tally on Lloyd Cardwell's 25 yard run after Isbell passed to Engebretsen for the Green Bay score Standings

HUSKERS AMONG TOP TEAMS TO BE BEATEN

Ohio State, Washington and Arkansas Among the Fallen

BY LESLIE AVERY.

NEW YORK (UP) Football grabbed the sports stage, thanks to the Yankees and the diehards who've been lavishing their affection on Baseball can give undivided attention to a grid season already well underway

Altho forced to share the weekend spotlight with the world series seven big favorites were knocked over and several of the 'greats' had to go 'all out' to remain undefeated

While Army Ohio State Nebraska University of Washington, Indiana and Arkansas were defeated, powerhouse elevens like Alabama Notre Dame Minnesota and Santa Clara were having close calls Probably as big a surprise as any was the failure of any of the big three—Yale Princeton and Harvard—to score a point

Army's defeat was not altogether unexpected but after the Cadets rolled up a two touchdown lead in the first half Columbia didn't seem to have a chance but the courageous Lions led by Sid Luckman's accurate passing won out with Luckman's two points after touchdown providing the margin

Ohio State conqueror of Indiana was upset 14-7 by Southern California Nebraska was edged 8-7 by Iowa State Washington was blanked 13 0 by U C L A and Indiana bowed 12 2 to an inspired Illinois

Panthers Come Thru

Pittsburgh was the only one of the grid giants to win as expected —27-0 over Duquesne

California the big powerhouse of the Pacific coast failed to get a contest in a doubleheader They walloped California Aggies and College of the Pacific by identical scores 48 0

Alabama southern candidate for national honors was able to make but two touchdowns for a 14 0 victory over a much weaker North Carolina State eleven Notre Dame considered 30 points better than Georgia Tech won 14 6 Minnesota was held to one touchdown in beating Purdue 7 0 and Santa Clara nosed Texas A & M 7 0

The downfall of the 'big three' was clearly pictured by Penn's 20-0 shutout over Yale Princeton's 22 0 loss to Dartmouth and Harvard's defeat by Cornell 20 0

Cubs Salve Wounds With $4,674 Each As World's Series Share

M'LEMORE

Suckers Pay Cash to See "World Series."

BY HENRY M'LEMORE.

NEW YORK. (Copyright 1938, UP). Howdy sucker!

I mean you and you and you and you and all of the other 200,833 easy marks who paid genuine money to see four baseball games which were advertised under the name of "world series."

Sport is not sport unless it is a contest. To make a contest you must have two good teams or two bad teams. David and Goliath works out only in the Bible. On the best day the Chicago Cubs ever saw (and I'll bet you even money they never saw a best day) they couldn't carry the news to Jake Rupper that his Yankees had knocked their heads off.

Remember all the brave statements the Cubs made before the series? Remember how Hartnett said "This is a tough gang that can't be stopped?" In his heart Hartnett must have known that his team would be lucky to lead by one run in one inning.

In short I think Hartnett and his boys were taking you guys for suckers.

No Hope of Winning.

Certainly if they know anything about baseball they didn't entertain any hope of winning. Looking at it man for man, as I did several weeks ago when I said that the series would not be worth 15 cents of anybody's money, the Cubs are children and the Yanks are men. Let us start with the catchers, Hartnett versus Dickey. Hartnett the great leader, benched himself after three games and gave up. Dickey was the best player on the field thru the four games.

At first base we had Collins versus Gehrig. Mrs. Collins is the only one who would choose the former. At second base a hog fat Herman was grateful to walk on the same ground Gordon did. At third base and third base alone were the Cubs superior. Hack was a tremendous player, Rolfe only a so-so one. Let us pass over the Cubs outfield as quickly as we can, especially gentlemen named Demaree and Reynolds. The latter is the only man who can air cool an entire baseball diamond by the wind he stirs up while missing a third strike. Demaree is a sort of outfielder who can catch only a particular sort of fly ball, the particular one being one which falls into his throat and lodges. Against this sterling outfield set, the Yankees only had Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich, Hoag and Selkirk.

As for the pitching staffs, all I can say is that more Cub pitchers passed in review than Pershing reviewed in 1917.

Let us stop and give the Cubs back to Wrigley and Ford Frick on the outside chance these gentlemen will have them.

SERIES SETS MARK AMONG THOSE RUN OFF IN FOUR GAMES

Yankees Collect $5,815 As Their Cut of the Swag.

OTHER CLUBS SHARE

NEW YORK. (UP). While it doesn't entirely make up for losing the world series in four straight games: The Chicago Cubs had some consolation in knowing they would collect $4,674.87 apiece for taking a beating.

The four games of the world series produced a total "gate" of $851,166 from 200,833 paying customers. Of this $434,094.66 went into the players' pool to be split up among the world series rivals and the other first division clubs of the two leagues.

The total was a record for a series decided in four games altho in a six game series, drawing larger crowds to the first four games from which the players' "cut" comes, the Yankees and Giants cut up a $460,002.66 melon in 1936.

The shares of the two clubs also were records for four-game affairs in which interest generally becomes less as they turn out to be lopsided. They split up 70 percent of the pool on a 60-40 basis

The Yanks, who gave out $3,500 in cash gifts and split the remainder into 30¾ shares, will get $5,815 28 apiece while the Cubs will draw down $4,674.87 on each of 25 full shares. The all-time records are $6,544 collected by the Detroit Tigers in 1935 when they beat the Cubs, and $4,656.40 which the Giants got for losing to the Yanks in 1936.

The cuts of the various other clubs are $32,557.10 each to the second place Boston Red Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates; $21,704.73 to the third-place Cleveland Indians and New York Giants and $10,852.37 which the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds get for finishing fourth.

Chicago Cubs Beat Themselves In Series With New York Yanks

Review of Play Indicates How Bruins Kicked Games Away.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK. (UP). The story of the 1938 world series is that the Chicago Cubs beat themselves. The Japanese have a word for it—hara kiri.

You can talk all you want to about the prowess of the mighty Yankees but when you get thru you have to admit that the National league champions committed suicide. It may be sacrilegous to doubt the potency of the triple world's champions but the facts speak loud and insistent. Cubs' mistakes proved the vital factor in every one of the four games.

Here's how the Cubs dug their own grave game by game:

FIRST GAME—Phil Cavaretta's ill-advised throw to third base trying to head off Gehrig on Bill Dickey's single in the second inning, which permitted Dickey to take second. With runners on third and second, the Cub infield was drawn in and Billy Herman booted an easy roller. When the inning was over the Yanks had two runs, in which one mental and one mechanical error were the important factors. The Yanks' third run resulted from a high pop fly hit by Dickey which Demaree, playing badly out of position in view of the stiff wind at his back, was unable to reach. Score, 3 to 1, and every Yankee run aided by Cub mistakes.

SECOND GAME—The details are horrible in this game. Shortstop Jurges and Third Baseman Hack collided in going after a dribbling grounder hit by Gordon which went for a double, and permitted two runs to score. Leftfielder Reynolds added more grief by lingering in his position and not backing up the play. Without those two runs, the Yanks would have gone into the eighth inning trailing, 3 to 0, and Crosetti's homer with one on wouldn't have put the crusher on Dean. Dizzy still would have had one run to spare and Hartnett could have rescued him.

Yanks Cash Breaks.

THIRD GAME—Going into the Yanks' fifth with a 1 to 0 lead, Clay Bryant had held the Rupport Rifles hitless. With two out Gordon hit a long fly to left, and to the amazement of everyone in the stands Reynolds came charging in for the ball. When he finally saw it, it was too late and the ball barely fell into the stands for a homer. Spectators who were sitting in the left field boxes say the ball landed in the stands only by a few feet and that Reynolds might have caught it. In the fourth game Demaree caught almost the same kind of a fly hit by Gordon, with his back against the stands. Even if Reynolds had not caught the ball a try for it might have saved Bryant much mental anguish and prevented the youngster from blowing sky high.

FOURTH GAME—Three unearned runs in the second inning wrecked Bill Lee. With two out, Hoag hit an ordinary grounder to Jurges who fielded the ball and then threw wild to first. Hoag was safe on a play which should have been the third out. Gordon and Ruffing followed with singles and Crosetti banged a triple, with three runs pouring in. Even Crosetti's triple might have been handled by more adept fielding. Later in the game Demaree made a much more difficult catch on Gordon's long fly. With the Cubs still in the game, trailing by only one run, 4 to 3, Tex Carleton uncorked a wild pitch which allowed a runner to score from third. Then Crosetti hit a puny pop fly to left and the slow Demaree couldn't get up in time and it went for a cheap double. Two more runs.

Yanks Deserve to Win.

As the series was played, the Yanks deserved to win. They outclassed the Cubs, were surer and smarter on defense, took advantage of every break and played heads up baseball. But the fact remains that the Cubs beat themsleves.

More than one American leaguer expressed the opinion that the Yanks did not play up to their championship form of the regular season, which is just as well for the Cubs. Bucky Harris, Washington pilot, believes the Cubs would have been easy marks for the five top American league clubs the way they played in the world series.

"Even my club would have scored as many runs as the Yanks did the way the Cubs were playing," said Harris.

Tony Lazzeri, an old Yankee himself who has enrolled on the side of the Cubs, told the story in a nutshell when he said after it was all over: "We gave them four games."

The Once Over

BY H. I. PHILLIPS.

This world series was a skirmish between Gargantua and Mickey Mouse.

It was a slight altercation between War Admiral and the iceman's horse; between Joe Louis and Dopey the Dwarf; between Frank Buck and Old Mother Hubbard.

If there are any more one sided series like this Judge Landis or somebody with a little sense of fair play should permit the use of the handicap system.

There wasn't a cowbell, a tin horn or a loud voiced rooter in the picture. More enthusiasm has been seen in games between rival high schools.

The lack of interest from an eastern standpoint is amazing. It can only be explained by the general indisposition to watch an underdog take a further beating up.

Sunday the stirring drama, "Custer's Massacre," was produced again just because it was in the contract.

There is this to be said in favor of football. They can always penalize the stronger team 20 yards and make it a little even.

It wasn't a world series. It was a landslide.

The Yanks couldn't have won any more easily if they'd had WPA funds.

Looking back over the picture, it wasn't so much a victory by the Yanks as a vote of confidence in them by the Cubs.

It was very sad. Even little Red Riding Hood's grandma would have taken the wolf one out of four chances.

At all times in the series the Chicago boys were as dangerous as Peter Rabbit operating on a caution signal from a cornered deer.

And even at that they are not a bad ball team. The Yanks make 'em all look like pygmies with an inferiority complex.

To further scramble the metaphors, the Cubs were standing knee deep in sandtraps for the entire 18 holes.

Every shot they made was over a water hazard.

And they seemed to be using their putters only.

Four in a row establishes the honesty of baseball. But a little corruption would at least furnish some small measure of gusto and excitement.

LINCOLN APPEARS TO BE HIGH HURDLE FOR PREP GRID ASPIRANTS

Debus, Hansen Lead Red and Black to 28-0 Victory Over Grand Island.

BEARCATS, BAYARD TIE

BY DALE M. JOHNS.

The cloud that appeared in southeast central Nebraska last Friday afternoon to obscure the vision of all state high school football teams with eyes on the mythical Nebraska grid championship, was dust. It was dust kicked up by the flying feet of Howard Debus and Don "Red" Hansen as they dazzled an inexperienced Grand Island eleven and headed a touchdown parade that brought Lincoln home on the long end of a 28 to 0 triumph.

Lincoln outdowned the Islanders 15 to 1 and never, after the first ten minutes of play when Debus flipped a pass to Hansen who raced 49 yards to score, did Grand Island threaten Lincoln's goal line.

So complete was Lincoln's mastery that Coach Ralph Beechner used 23 players, each combination functioning successfully against the Islanders. The Third City eleven made one gallant goal line stand in the second period and took the ball from Lincoln on the 1 yard stripe.

Scottsbluff, defending co-champion with Lincoln, opened its Nebraska and Western conference program with a 7-7 tie by Bayard, seriously dulling the Bearcats' chance to regain the pinnacle of state prep football.

Links Also Have Hurdles.

At this early date it looks like Lincoln all the way, but no coronations will be held until the Capital City eleven finishes its schedule by meeting on successive Fridays, Falls City and North Platte, both of which are off to thundering starts in the Southeast and Southwest conferences, respectively. Either Omaha Central or Omaha South might also end Lincoln's drive.

Coach "Jug" Brown's Falls City Tigers whipped Auburn, 19-6, to clear the second hurdle on their road to a seventh straight Southeast title. Quarterback Don James featured the Tiger attack, returning a punt 70 yards for one touchdown and flipping to Capt. Don Femmer, end, for another. Falls City's next loop game is with Nebraska City, Nov. 4.

Coach Ivan Wilson's North Platte Bulldogs brought their three game scoring total to 115 points by routing Lexington, 31 to 7, in the Southwest conference, and have yet to meet McCook, Curtis and Cozad in the loop.

Curtis opened its Southwest program by dumping McCook, 13-0. Gothenburg won its second league game, 41-0 over Holdrege, while Coach Dahl's Cozad eleven trumped Cambridge, 25-0.

York, Fairbury Tie.

York was involved in its second straight scoreless tie when Coach Floyd Gautsch's eleven and Fairbury were unable to reach pay dirt in their Mid-East argument. A week earlier Columbus and York battled to a scoreless draw.

Marty Kooien's Geneva outfit, off to an impressive start by beating Exeter, 40-0, and Superior, 13-6, dropped a rousing battle to Hebron, 7-0, in a southern high light. Hebron holds earlier 13-6 and 26-0 victories over Wilber and Wymore, respectively.

Omaha South got off to a running start in the intercity league race by trouncing Tech, 19-7, while Central salvaged a scoreless tie in the Missouri Valley league by spending Friday evening making goal line stands on Sioux City East's gridiron.

Coach Marvin Paul's Columbus eleven turned back Albion, 7-0, in an east central classic. Albion had previously beaten Norfolk, 6-0, while Columbus holds a 20-0 victory over Schuyler.

Meanwhile two more Lincoln elevens continued impressive records. Jackson came back in the second half to wipe out an intermission deficit and edge Beatrice, 12-7. Bethany smothered David City, 48-0, running the Maroon scoring total to 115 points in three games.

Tilden Paces Cornbelt.

Tilden went to the head of the Cornbelt class with Neligh by handing Madison its second loop loss, 19-0. Neligh bumped Pierce, 33-6, in a non-conference engagement and Battle Creek bowed to Stanton, 18-6.

Central City opened its Central Six program by routing Wahoo, 22 to 0, Schuyler and Aurora tied, 13-all, and Seward and Fullerton battled scorelessly. Pender thumped Bancroft, 26-0, in the Logan Valley loop and went to the head of the standings.

Ord continued to dominate the Mid-Six clubs with a 13-0 triumph over Broken Bow, while Ravenna handed St. Paul its second loop defeat, 22-6.

The Nemaha Valley race was set aside for outside engagements, Talmage dropping Table Rock, 14-0, Weeping Water bowing to Humboldt, 12-7, Nemaha smashing Auburn reserves, 22-0 and Eagle going home with a 20-0 licking from Ashland.

Of last year's 13 unbeaten teams, Ashland, Ainsworth, Elwood, Lincoln, Ord, Scottsbluff, and Wilber are still with unblemished records.

Alma crushed Arapahoe, 52-12, in the Republican Valley conference, while outside the loop Minden took a 21-0 licking from Kearney, Orleans smothered Wilsonville, 50-0; Oxford battled scorelessly with Culbertson and Dick Fischer's Red Cloud eleven maintained a fine record by walloping Blue Hill, 33-0.

Win Western Frays.

In Western conference mixes Bridgeport pummeled Sidney, 19-0, Oshkosh took Minatare into camp, 14-7, Morrill and Gering battled to a 0-all tie, Mitchell slapped Kimball 13-0, Chappell crushed Sutherland, 45-0, and Hemingford downed Dalton, 12-0.

MAROONS FAVORED IN LINCOLN CITY LEAGUE

Jackson and Hastings Tied for Lead in Mid-East Football Loop.

The three circuits concerning Capital City clubs—Greater Lincoln, Missouri Valley, and Mid-East, contained more than their share of the prep gridiron thrills last week.

The Greater Lincoln standings were unchanged due to no loop games scheduled, but Bethany's spectacular 48 to 0 deefat of David City kept the Maroons in the favored spot. This week Havelock and College View tangle ni the loop feature, while Falls City travels to Jackson in the non-conference highlight. Bethany's Dale Bradley has averaged 16 points in his three games.

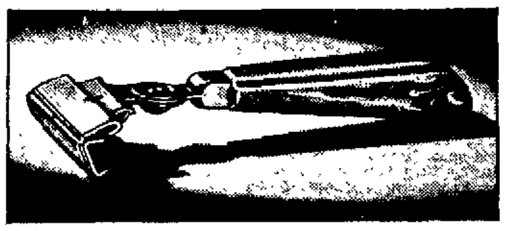
Soo City Central knocked off Abraham Lincoln, 20 to 0, in the Missouri Valley conference feature, while Omaha South whipped Tech, 19 to 7, to stay at the top of the heap. Omaha Central held Sioux City East's vaunted offensive scoreless and received a tie for its efforts.

Jackson nudged Beatrice, 12 to 7, thanks to Darrell Gunn's excellent ball lugging, to tie Hastings for the Mid-East lead Meanwhile Fairbury and York fought to a 0 to 0 deadlock.

MEN OF THIS CITY PROVE THEY KNOW A BARGAIN!

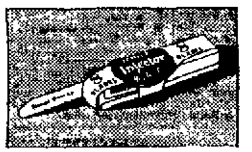
Thousands of local men have found new shaving comfort since last week, when the shaving buy of the year was announced! Quick to recognize a bargain, they jumped at this opportunity!

Here's what you get!



GENUINE SCHICK INJECTOR RAZOR

Exactly the same famous razor now nationally advertised and sold in the De Luxe Kit (with a cartridge of 20 Blades) for . . . $2.00



8 GENUINE SCHICK BLADES, bathed in oil, in automatic metal Injector with trigger control for changing blades without touching them. No other razor has this patented method for quick, safe blade changing.

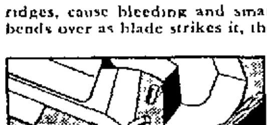
LIFEBUOY SHAVING CREAM, GIANT TUBE. Holds 52% more moisture than ordinary lather. Soaks whiskers soft. Soothes skin. Same as now selling for . . . . . . 25¢

ALL THREE FOR THE "GIVE-AWAY" PRICE OF . . 59¢

The allotment for this city is only enough for 1 out of 12 men. After the supply is exhausted the regular price for each item of the combination will again prevail.

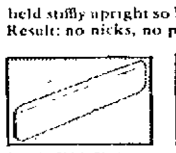
WHY MORE THAN A MILLION MEN (ALREADY) HAVE SWITCHED TO SCHICK INJECTOR RAZOR

OLD-STYLE SHAVE . . . The combing "teeth" of this razor guard are not designed to stretch the skin taut enough ahead of the blade edge—and have a tendency to "ridge" the skin surface. Blades can nick the top of ridges, cause bleeding and smarting. And, because whisker bends over as blade strikes it, the razor seems to "pull."



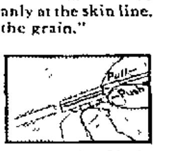
SOLID GUIDE BAR FLATTENS SKIN

SCHICK INJECTOR SHAVE . . . Designed to flatten and stretch the skin, the Schick guide bar is solid, has no "teeth." Skin is stretched taut, giving a smooth shaving surface. Whiskers are held stiffly upright so blade can cut them cleanly at the skin line. Result: no nicks, no pull . . . even "against the grain."

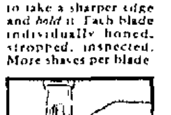


Double-Thick Blades... Schick Blades are able to take a sharper edge and hold it. Each blade individually honed, stropped, inspected. More shaves per blade

Sealed in a bath of oil in a metal cartridge. The blade edges are actually suspended in space, no paper covering which might rub and dull them



Automatic Blade Change! Give the "trigger" a pull and push—out shoots old blade, in goes a fresh one! Nothing to unwrap, unscrew, twist or reassemble.



A rinse and it's clean! Save minutes every day. No need to wipe and dry the Injector Razor after every shave . . . a flush under the faucet and it's ready to put away

LIFEBUOY SHAVING CREAM

For Toughest Beards—For Tenderest Skins

Lifebuoy's extra moist, soothing lather takes all the "yumph" out of wiry whiskers—because it soaks them soft. Grand for tender skins, too, because it's 20% milder than other leading shaving soaps. There are 120 to 150 smooth, clean, FRESH shaves in the big red tube.

The Best Shaving Cream You Can Buy
Plus the World's Finest Razor
With 8 Blades in Automatic Injector

AT THE "GIVE-AWAY" PRICE OF 59¢

NOTICE TO ALL DEALERS. Any dealer in the LINCOLN trading area regularly selling shaving preparations or razors may secure this deal by applying to his jobber, to Lever Brothers Co., Cambridge, Mass., or to the Magazine Repeating Razor Co., Bridgeport, Conn.

NEW YORK (AP) Utilities bounded upward in Monday's stock market but many strong leaders of the past week backed away under mild profit taking pressure. Continued favorable business prospects remained as a market stimulant but the fact the list had shot up in nine out of ten sessions tended to induce some speculative contingents to cash in and await possibly better buying opportunities.

Some lightening of commitments brokers said may have resulted from the reading of Hitler's Sunday speech in which he stressed the thought that future war dangers had not been obliterated and that the reich's fortifications would be expanded on the western front.

Dealings attained sufficient speed after the opening to put the ticker tape behind for a short time. The proceedings were fairly fast until afternoon when there was a slowdown and declines running to a point or more in steels, motors, rails and specialties were reduced. The closing tone was irregularly lower. Transfers approximated 1,600,000 shares.

Two adverse utility decisions by the supreme court—refusing reviews of appeals by the West Tennessee Power & Light and Public Service of Indiana—failed to halt purchasing of power stocks. The revival here was attributed partly to the belief this group was "behind the market." It had lagged noticeably when the industrials and rails were hitting new highs. Steels recovered somewhat when this week's mill operations were estimated up 3.5 points at a new peak since last October.

Coppers lacked vigor notwithstanding the domestic price of the metal was given another boost. In addition the international copper cartel at London increased the production allowance of its members to 105 percent of normal capacity from 95 percent.

Motors were among the early sliders altho the sales outlook was believed favorable for new cars and 15,000 workers out over a Chrysler dispute on a 32 hour week returned to their jobs.

SUPPLY CUT PROPS WHEAT

Weevil Damage to Grain in Kansas Attracts Notice

CHICAGO (AP) Helped by 892,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total the Chicago wheat market turned upward slightly in late dealings. The decrease contrasted with an increase last week. Some notice was taken of reports of weevil damage to Kansas wheat stored in bins of farms.

At the close Chicago wheat futures were ¼ off to ⅛ up compared with Saturday's finish, Dec 64⅝ @ ½, May 65½ @ ⅝; corn ⅛-¼ down, Dec 45 @ 45⅛, May 48⅜ @ ½, and oats ⅛ to ¼ off.

The wheat market lacked definite direction altho downturns at times were attributed to reports of better crop conditions in the southern hemisphere. Around noon however prices began to rally. Only a small export business in Canadian wheat was reported. Better demand developed for U S corn however. Several exporters sold a few loads and sales were estimated at about 150,000 bushels.

Good rains where most needed in Argentina were noted and Australian advices told of cooler temperatures. The fact that a government crop report from Washington was expected after the close of Monday's trading served too as a weight on values and likewise did indications that export demand for North American grains over the week end amounted to little. In addition Liverpool wheat quotations were in some cases considerably lower than due.

Cables said North America continued to furnish half of the world export shipments of wheat. Most of the North American total however it was stated came from Canada.

Continued big receipts of corn 771 cars in Chicago Monday operated to pull corn values down. Rural offerings of corn tho were reported as much smaller than of late.

GRAIN NOTES.

CHICAGO (AP) Corn loans from the government now aggregate $22,670,005 based on a loan rate of 50 cents per bushels of 2½ cubic feet of ear corn testing up to 14½ percent moisture. The average amount loaned per bushel determined in this manner thus far has been 48 4 cents.

According to Thomson & McKinnon the recent trend of domestic wheat prices to divorce themselves from world's levels will continue. This is ascribed to the United States export subsidy and to English buyers anticipating removal of 6c duty against American wheat.

The Saskatchewan pool's final estimate of 1938 Saskatchewan wheat production is 134,980,000 bushels. This is 8,653,000 bushels less than a preliminary estimate Aug 26.

LIVERPOOL WHEAT AND COTTON

LIVERPOOL (AP) Cotton futures closed unchanged to 4 points higher. Liquidation and light hedging were more than offset by local speculative buying.

Wheat futures were ¼d up to ⅝d lower at the finish. The market was easier early on lower shippers offers and American selling but rallied later on bullish Australian crop estimates and covering in October.

LIVESTOCK.

CHICAGO (AP) Hog prices continued to slump sharply under the burden of expanding receipts in all major markets. Quotations here fell 15 to mostly 25 cents to the lowest point since last spring and within only a few cents of the lowest level in four years when the rise that accompanied the 1934 drouth got under way.

Top for hogs fell to $8 35, almost $1 less than two weeks ago. The supply of 22,000 head was 5,000 larger than expected and 4,000 larger than received a week ago.

Cattle also shared in the weakness of hogs. The supply of beeves was larger than expected and killing quality was only medium to good. There were no strictly choice cattle on sale but most well conditioned kinds held steady while others lost 25 cents. Early top was $13 25.

Fat lambs were steady to 10 cents lower, natives topping at $8 25.

NEW YORK (AP) A well balanced demand for railroad securities enabled the bond market to present a generally higher appearance Monday despite backward tendencies in some industrials and utilities.

At the beginning of the final hour prices of the more active issues were close to the day's best and from 1 to 2 points ahead of Saturday's final. Included were Nickel Plate 5½s, Alleghany 5s, Pennsylvania General 4½s, Frisco 4½s, Western Union 5s and Cuba Northern Railway 5½s. Santa Fe adjustment 5s improved 5 points and New Orleans & Great Northern 5s gained 10, both on light demand.

Foreign dollar bonds were generally higher. Uruguay 4½s advanced more than 3 points and Milan 6½s got up about 1. U S governments were 1 32d of a point lower to 6 32ds higher with advances in the majority.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright 1938 By Ely Culbertson.)

Just one week from today, Monday, Oct 17, the second annual national self rating bridge examination starts. This I grant is a ponderous title but then the event itself is highly important! Last year thousands upon thousands of players who "rated themselves" by following the daily questions and comparing their answers with mine that appeared the next day found that they had been unduly complacent about their own bridge prowess. Many a husband who for years had been lording it over his poor downtrodden wife and bawling her out every time she made what he in his wisdom considered a bad bid was brought down to earth with a resounding bang! Perhaps the examination started a lot of fights but it cannot be denied that it settled an even greater number.

The same general form that was used last year will apply again this year. Certain provisions (which will be announced next Monday) have been simplified so that I confidently expect even greater public interest than in the first exam. I strongly advise every one who wants to improve his game or who wants to know exactly how good or how bad he is to keep a weather eye out for next Monday.

The bidding

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | Pass | 1 spade | Pass |
| 2 no trump | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Particular attention is called to North's pass in the above sequence. Thousands of readers probably will feel that North violated a cardinal principle of the Culbertson system but they will be wrong. This is a situation that is confused with a similar but far from identical one. It is quite true that a two no trump bid when used as a jump takeout of an opening bid is an absolute force. But this does not apply in the above sequence. South's two no trump bid was not a jump takeout in anything like the true sense of the word. It was a jump rebid.

Consider the implications of the bidding. South starts with one heart and can have as little as two and a half honor tricks with a five card suit. North does not like hearts and can show his own suit without increasing the contract, hence is entitled to bid one spade. When this gets around to South the latter knows nothing about North's hand except that he has a spade suit. South himself however must show that he has considerably more strength than was indicated by his opening heart bid and also that he has protection in diamonds and clubs. This he indicates with his two no trump jump rebid. Obviously this rebid although showing a strong hand and in that sense being an urge for partner to bid again cannot be a force. If South were strong enough to visualize nine tricks after the mere mention of the spade suit by North his rebid should not be two no trump; it should be three no trump.

In this particular case North had to strain himself somewhat in order to respond to the first bid. That being so his pass to the urging but not forcing two no trump rebid is quite in order.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND by EDWARD A. WIGGAM, D.Sc.

ARE WOMEN WILLING TO ENDURE MORE AND WORK HARDER TO IMPROVE THEIR APPEARANCE THAN THEIR HEALTH? YES OR NO ___ 1
2 DO WIVES RATE THE PERSONAL QUALITIES OF THEIR HUSBANDS HIGHER THAN HUSBANDS RATE THEIR WIVES? YOUR OPINION ___
WHICH HAD MORE TO DO WITH STARTING CIVILIZATION—THE MAN OR THE WOMAN? ___ 3

Answer to Question No 1

1 Far more If women would expend one fifth as much time and money in systematic exercise in the study of scientific diet and in securing plenty of fresh air sunshine and sleep as they do in studying planning and making clothes putting on make-up and the like—we would have such a healthy race of women that many of the beauty aids would be unnecessary Think of the agony women endure in wearing high heeled shoes! On the other hand some of this taking thought' does make them look better and most of it is not really injurious as were old-time corsets and some of those grotesque beauty aids

Answer to Question No 2

2 A psychologist of Washington university Jessie Barnard devised a scale for rating degrees of marital happiness and unhappiness She found more unhappy husbands than unhappy wives yet on the whole the men rated their wives higher on personal qualities than the wives rated the husbands From this it seems we may have a high estimate of a person's qualities and yet be unhappy living with him or her Ain't nature queer?

Answer to Question No 3

3 In a sense it was the woman altho' it is hard to divide the honors (or the blame) because the thing that really made civilization a necessity was the child Owing to the fact that the human child has a far longer period of helpless infancy than any other animal—which John Fiske showed 50 years ago was one cause of man's vastly higher intelligence the mother and child had to be cared for by the father In order to do this more effectively fight off animal enemies and secure food he had to combine with other fathers Also the youth had to be trained in the tribal arts and so civilization was really built around the family and parenthood

TARZAN AND THE ELEPHANT MEN

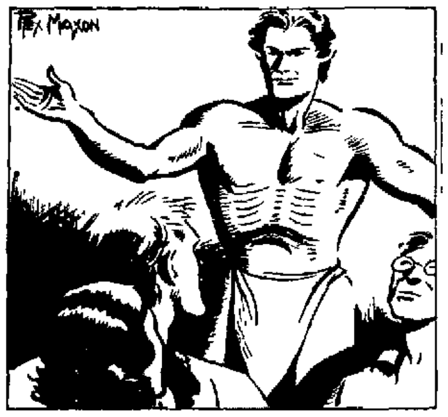
Engulfed by the dark chill African night a contented company sat before a roaring fire in Tarzan's bungalow There was every reason why they should be content Here at last was a haven of peace and security after a series of terrifying and perilous adventures

Gonfala daughter of Lord and Lady Mountford had been rescued from the land of the Kaji women warriors There she had been a captive under the malign influence of Mafka who ruled by a strange magic derived from two great gems a diamond and an emerald

Gonfala suddenly shuddered I shan't feel safe until we are out of Africa she sighed Stanley Wood put an arm around her 'There is no need to be afraid Tarzan saved us all and tomorrow he will give us a strong safari to take us to the coast



You will travel safely Tarzan nodded Thus it seemed that their adventures were drawing to a happy ending But the invisible hand of fate already was preparing to write another chapter—more perilous more harrowing than any that had gone before!
